Van Fleet Threatens Force To Rescue General Dodd

Preparing Solid Base for Underpass Approach

City crews are hurrying the approach to the Broadway underpass on the uptown side of the new West Shore railroad bridge and the hope is that the project will be completed by this weekend. Heavy crushed stone forms the road base, which is being covered with sand, oil and then will be surfaced with blacktop. (Freeman photo)

The Satellites-V

In Bulgaria, the Communists are in the saddle as they are in all the satellites of Europe, but here, too, one Communist doesn't know whether to trust another. Moscow can only tighten the screws a little tighter. Here is the fifth and last of a series on the satellites, written by William L. Ryan after scores of interviews in 10 countries.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Chervenkov? . . . Chankov? . . . Panchevsky? . . .

There's a lot of guessing about who is the real boss of the Communists in Bulgaria. But the Bulgarian people don't guess. They know there is only one boss, and his name is Stalin.

In Bulgaria, most Sovietized of all the captive countries of Europe, the premier acts like a vest pocket edition of the dictator in Moscow . . . but Premier Vulko Chervenkov must be uneasy.

Like Stalin, the stocky little Chervenkov lets the whole population know when he ventures out of doors. Just like the Kremlin escorts, the heavily armed, bullet-proof cars which escort the Bulgarian premier open their sirens and careen down the highway at breakneck speed.

The Chervenkov motorcade is well known. The premier himself rides in a Soviet Zis 110, Moscow version of the Packard. The escort cars are Packards, one old, the others somewhat newer. All are crammed with bodyguards.

All Traffic Stops

When the motorcade wheels out of the Villa Balbanov, where Chervenkov lives in luxury, and screams down the Boulevard Rusko, all traffic comes to a stop—just as it does when Stalin's car leaves the Kremlin. The route is lined by a forest of heavily armed sentries at military posts. Chervenkov is on his way.

He may be on his way out.

As in other captive countries, there is a struggle going on at the top in Bulgaria, too. Many European sources express belief that Chervenkov, 50-year-old professional Communist with Moscow training, is simply a figurehead. The power behind the scenes, they say, is Georgi Chankov, a deputy prime minister—and behind him, the Russians.

Related to Dimitrov

Chervenkov, rough-and-tumble Communist veteran of many jails since he joined the party in 1919 as a youngster, is related by marriage to the late Georgi Dimitrov, the old Bolshevik Bulgarian premier who went to Moscow for a "cure" and never returned.

Today, Dimitrov's followers are dropping by the wayside, one by one. Another show trial may not be far off. Recently there has been a severe purge of cabinet functionaries and high officials, including Boris Taskov, president of the State Reserves Department which stocks strategic materials; Kyril Dramaliev, a Dimitrov Communist intellectual in the same department, and Prof. Sava Ganovski, a Dimitrov man who headed the science and culture division of the cabinet.

Chankov may be behind this or possibly the man behind it all is Peter Panchevsky, Moscow's viceroy who, as defense minister, runs

Foreign Aid Takes Rank as Clearcut Republican Issue

Two Are Split Sharply Over Amount Needed as Taft Disputes Ike's Views

Washington, May 9 (AP)—Foreign aid was a clearcut Republican presidential campaign issue today with the two leading contenders for the nomination on record as sharply split over the amount needed to finance the program successfully.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, agreeing with administration leaders, said congressional proposals to cut foreign aid by one billion dollars would be "seriously felt." A greater, cut he said, might endanger U. S. security.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio promptly replied that a cut of even two billion dollars in the $7,900,000,000 asked for the next fiscal year starting July 1 "would in no way endanger the program or the security of the United States."

Disagrees With General

Taft told a news conference in Hartford, Conn., that he flatly disagreed with Eisenhower's views, expressed in a message to Sen. Connally (D.-Tex.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Eisenhower said in his cable to Connally that the nation's mutual security program is gradually stabilizing the international scene, and advised against a sharp cut.

As the Senate Armed Services Committee today continued its own examination of the foreign aid bill, Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) said administration leaders much prefer the proposed Senate method of cutting the bill to the one proposed by a House group.

Flanders told a reporter that Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett gave this opinion in closed-door testimony before the Armed Services Committee yesterday.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted last week to slash a billion dollars off the bill. It distributed this evenly over the various allotments for all parts of the world.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday knocked $1,010,900,000 off Truman's requested program, but made all of this reduction in Europe.

Oil Strike Hope Is on May 13 Date

WSB, Unions, Plant Managements Agree on Date

Denver, May 9 (AP)—Scarcity of high-octane aviation gasoline today ranked as the most serious effect of the nine-day-old nation-wide oil strike.

There seemed little chance for immediate settlement. A possibility the strike may be extended was voiced in Denver by O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO).

The major hope seems to be a meeting May 13 between the Wage Stabilization Board and representatives of 22 striking AFL, CIO and independent unions and management of the struck refineries and pipelines.

Pinch Widely Felt

The pinch on aviation fuel has been widely felt. Air France announced flights will be cut by 50 per cent unless the quota for trans-Atlantic carriers is increased. The line has 20 flights weekly. Trans-Canada Air Lines reduced schedules of about 40 daily flights between Canada and New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago and Seattle.

A 30 per cent slash in aviation gasoline has been ordered by the government. The air force has reduced training flight hours. Military and commercial lines report shortages are affecting operations overseas and in the territories.

A report from Ottawa said Canada may curb the use of aviation gasoline in some parts of the commonwealth.

Delivery of aviation gasoline to re-sellers or consumers with a three-day supply on hand was forbidden by the government.

On the bright side, the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) suspended inventory limitations on stocks of home heating, diesel and residual fuel oil today in all of 26 states and part of four others.

Inventory controls on automobile gasoline and kerosene remain in effect in 43 states and the District of Columbia.

Works for Settlement

President Truman announced yesterday he is working hard for settlement. He said the situation is not yet serious enough for him to invoke injunctive powers of the Taft-Hartley law.

Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the WSB, indicated the dispute will be returned to the White House if efforts of the board fail. The WSB took no action on the strike at a meeting yesterday.

Feinsinger's earlier appeal for an end to the walkout pending the May 13 conclave was rejected by Knight.

National Petroleum News reported the strike has closed down

Seized by Red Prisoners

The Army announced May 8 that Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd (above), Allied Commandant of the Koje Island prison camp, had been seized by Red prisoners at the camp May 7. A fellow-officer was also seized. The Army said Dodd is still being held as a hostage. The camp is on an island off the southeast coast of Korea.

Gross Says Influence Reached Into Records

Ex-Bookie Boss Says Police Removed Data From Department Files About Him and His Men at His Direction

New York, May 9 (AP)—Boss bookie Harry Gross said today he did not understand why all the high ranking police officers he had named as accepting graft from him were not indicted last year by Brooklyn grand juries.

Gross ended two and a half days of testimony against many police officers to whom he said he had paid a million dollars a year to protect his 20 million dollar horse betting empire.

Gross amplified his testimony of yesterday that he had had police officers on his payroll withdraw fingerprint records of his men from police department files.

Gross said he also had had his own fingerprints and records of previous convictions withdrawn.

One of the lawyers for the five policemen on department trial for allegedly accepting graft asked Gross whether the court records of Gross' previous convictions were made up after his arrest in 1950.

"I don't know when it was made up," Gross said. "I told them all the pinches I had—I told them I had removed my record."

Gross said he told the grand jury that he bribed William P. O'Brien, former police commissioner, and August Flath, former chief inspector, and William Whalen, former chief of detectives, the three highest ranking officers in the police department.

Surprised at Omission

He said he was surprised they were not named in the indictment. Their names did not become public in connection with Gross' bribery ring until this week.

"I told Helfand (Julius Helfand, assistant district attorney) is there favoritism here," Gross said, referring to discussions he had before last year's criminal trial against many policemen. This trial collapsed when Gross refused to testify against the men.

"He told me not to be a lawyer," Gross added. "Perhaps someone was taken care of—I don't know. All I know is they were mentioned and they were left out."

In answer to questions from defense attorneys, Gross said he was not charging that Helfand or Brooklyn District Attorney Miles MacDonald had been bribed not to bring in the highest officers he had named.

The subject of Gross' alleged $15,000 political contribution to the 1949 campaign of formet Mayor William O'Dwyer came up.

Repeats Testimony

Gross repeated his testimony of Wednesday that he was originally asked for $1,000 for each gambling location, and added the additional information today that

Wicks Heads List of 76 Attending Dinner From Ulster

New York, May 9 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared anew yesterday that he is not a candidate for president.

The 1944 and 1948 Republican nominee asked New York state's delegates to the GOP National Convention not to vote for him at any stage of the proceedings.

Dewey told the delegates:

"Everyone knows that I am for Gen. Eisenhower from the beginning to the end of this convention.

"But there has been a certain amount of scurrilous gossip in the newspaper columns that I was in truth a candidate for the nomination.

"All of you know that I am not a candidate, because I said I was not. I ask each of you in casting your vote to recognize that I am not a candidate and that you will not vote for me for any office from the beginning to the end of the convention.

"With that understanding, I am willing to have you go ahead and elect me chairman of the delegation."

Delegation Chairman

Dewey, an early supporter of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the nomination, then was unanimously elected delegation chairman.

Dewey claims that all but one of the state's powerful 96-member delegation will back Eisenhower. One delegate has declared for Sen. Robert A. Taft. Supporters of Taft say he will get at least 17 of New York's votes. Under state law, the delegates are uninstructed.

The meeting of the delegates and alternates was followed last night by the annual $100-a-plate dinner of the Republican State Committee at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. More than 2,500 persons attended.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon (R.-Calif), a principal speaker, called on GOP presidential aspirants to "publicly and unequivocally disavow" any claim to the power to seize any industry, except as the power is granted by Congress. He referred to President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

'They Promote Him'

Dewey said, "when the Republicans find a crook, they throw him out. When the Democrats

Reds Seize Brigadier At Isle Camp

Prisoners' Demands Not to Be Met While U. S. Officer Is Held; Taken at Gates

Only Thinnest Details Are Given Out About Seizure

Seoul, Korea, May 9 (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet said tonight he will use force if necessary to rescue Brig. Gen. Francis E. Dodd from the Communist prisoners of war who captured the general on Koje Island prison camp.

Van Fleet said he would not give in to the Reds' "unreasonable" demands for special privileges before they release the prison camp commander.

The U.S. Eighth Army commander made his statement after a flying trip to rebellious Koje, off the southern tip of Korea.

Van Fleet was under orders from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, "to use whatever force is necessary" to free Dodd without delay.

Held Since Wednesday

The 52-year-old Dodd has been a prisoner since Wednesday, when North Korean POWS seized him at the gates of a compound.

Ridgway said the Communists were demanding "phones, permission to organize, writing paper and some other things" before they would release Dodd.

The Army released only meager details of the new rebellion at Koje and kept newsmen from going there. First announcement of the kidnaping came early today.

Van Fleet said "we have not yet been able to determine why the guards didn't rush in for a rescue attempt. That question will be answered by a military board of inquiry."

Expresses Confidence

He expressed confidence that Dodd would not be harmed. The Eighth Army commander attached considerable significance to Dodd's own optimism over an army telephone which kept him in contact with American guards outside the stockade.

"However," Van Fleet said, "if necessary, force will be used to effect his release."

He said the bulk of the prisoner's demands were "unreasonable and cannot and will not be granted."

An Eighth Army spokesman said Dodd and Lt. Col. Wilbur Robert Raven of Newton, Tex., were seized while standing at the gate of a prison compound talking to leaders of the 6,000 Communist prisoners.

"The gate was a wide one," the spokesman said. "Dodd was standing in the center of the gate.

Organized Mob

"When the prisoners grabbed him, it was an organized mob and he was swept inside.

"But Raven was standing beside a post of the gate. When the prisoner grabbed him, he seized the post, held on, and by fighting and kicking managed to free himself. The post saved him, but Gen-

Atomic Gun Described As Devastating Weapon

Firepower Is Called Tremendous — Is Artillery Piece

New York, May 9 (AP) — An atomic gun developed by the U. S. Army was described last night as an accurate and devastating weapon, providing field commanders with tremendous "finger-tip" fire power—and heralding a new era in the waging of war.

The description of this country's first atomic artillery weapon—a gun that can "hit its target under any weather conditions and give ground troops the kind of devastating close support never before available in warfare"—came from Army Secretary Frank Pace.

Is Artillery Weapon

Pace said the new weapon "is essentially an artillery piece—but with immeasurably greater power than any artillery hitherto known."

"Such atomic weapons," he added, eventually will bring "significant changes" in the army's traditional mission of closing with and destroying an enemy.

Pace's claims for the weapon came in a speech before a meeting of the National Wool Manufacturers Association.

The weapon has been tested by the army with non-atomic ammunition but official specifications of the gun remained a secret until last night.

Gives 'Picture' of Gun

Pace, in disclosing for the first time some of the weapon's specifications, gave this picture of the gun:

It weighs about 75 tons but is highly mobile and is carried on a platform suspended between two engine cabs at its front and rear.

It can travel at a speed of about 35 miles per hour on highways—and it can cross bridges "which army engineers are already trained to build for present heavy divisional equipment."

It can travel cross-country.

Increases Might Go Several Cents on Some Items

Washington, May 9 (AP)—Substantial increases in food prices, ranging from one to several cents a package in a long list of items, may be approved by the government within the next few days.

Price control officials said the increases probably will apply to such things as concentrated coffee, dry cereals, crackers, canned fruits, vegetables and soups, tuna and salmon and some canned meats.

An official told a reporter some items in 33 of the 36 classes of packaged groceries covered by the food price orders may be given higher ceilings. The method and

Big Claim Filed

Schuster's Father Seeks $500,000; Negligence Is Charge

New York, May 9 (AP)—Slain Arnold Schuster's father has filed a $500,000 damage claim against the city, charging negligence.

The claim fas filed yesterday by Max Schuster, Brooklyn store proprietor and administrator of the son's estate.

The son, 24-year-old pants salesman in his father's store, was shot to death near his Brooklyn home March 8.

The unsolved slaying was three weeks after young Schuster spotted fugitive bank robber Willie (The Actor) Sutton on a subway train and caused his arrest.

The claim charged that the murder was due to the "negligence, carelessness and recklessness" of the city.

35 Girls Are Injured

Atlanta, May 9 (AP)—A passenger train plowed into a school bus loaded with 35 high school girls today, injuring 17, some perhaps critically. The accident, just inside the city limits of nearby East Point, occurred at a four track grade crossing. The bus was hurled 75 feet down the track. Motorcycle Patrolman L. V. Roberts, one of the first at the scene, said he found the high school kids stunned and sprawled in the aisles of the bus, across seats and slumped under them. "They were bleeding," Roberts continued, "some from the nose, many from cuts while others were unconscious."

Nomination Approved

Washington, May 9 (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved the nomination of Federal Judge James P. McGranery of Philadelphia to be attorney general. The vote was 8 to 4. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said opponents of the nomination had obtained permission to file a minority report. He said he would carry the fight to the Senate floor. McGranery was nominated by President Truman early last month to succeed J. Howard McGrath in the cabinet post.

Bill Is Debated

Washington, May 9 (AP)—A controversial immigration bill designed to overhaul the nation's immigration laws on a major scale for the first time in nearly 30 years comes up to debate in the Senate today. A companion bill recently was passed by the House by a standing vote to 206 to 68.

Washington, May 9 (AP) — Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) said the United Nations today will be given a chance to do something about freeing William N. Oatis from a Czechoslovakian prison and prove it is "more than a debating society."

U. S. Sides With South Korea On Japanese-Korean Pact

Washington, May 9 (AP)—The United States is reported siding with South Korea in a dispute which thus far has blocked completion of a Japanese-Korean peace treaty.

The disagreement is over a claim by Japan to the vast properties she held before V-J Day in Korea, which for 35 years was Japanese-governed. Included are the railroads, shipping, utilities and public buildings — almost everything of value in her former territory.

Tokyo's insistence that the Korean government must agree to restore the property to its "original state" and pay indemnities for damage resulting from the current Korean conflict has stalemated treaty negotiations.

Diplomatic authorities said today that a Korean appeal to the State Department has produced a crisp opinion approved by Secretary Acheson that the Japanese claim is not valid. The American position is that Japan lost any rights she may have had in the peace treaty which last month restored her sovereignty.

In Article IV of the treaty Japan accepted the disposition of former Japanese property which was made by the U. S. military government before American occupation troops were pulled out of Korea in 1948.

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, the occupation commander, who had confiscated it all in 1945, ordered it turned over to the South Korean government. Some of the property is now privately owned.

Japan and South Korea for months have been trying to work out terms of a treaty of friendship and commerce—in effect a separate peace treaty—because the Koreans were not permitted to sign the 49-nation San Francisco pact. Technically Korea was never at war with Japan.

The South Korean ambassador to the U. S., Dr. You Chan Yang, has said that recognition of the Japanese claims would amount to "turning Korea back to the Japanese."

Water Board Says Balance Is $33,424

Commissioners Say Fund Not What City Had Idea It Was

The Board of Water Commissioners following its regular meeting last night announced a balance on hand of $33,424.67, a total far below the $68,685.36 surplus shown by the water department at the time the Common Council moved to transfer $50,000 from the department for street work.

The board took no action on the proposed sale of unused reservoir properties in the town of Woodstock, and said it had received no word from the State Civil Service Commission on the date of an examination to be held for the position of water department superintendent.

To Announce Date

The Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission has announced, meanwhile, that the department has received from the New York State Civil Service Commission, "a complete approval for the position of water works superintendent," and that a date for the examination will be announced.

An announcement by the local commission also said the board may appoint a provisional employe until such time as an examination can be held.

The Common Council voted Tuesday night on recommendation of Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk to transfer $50,000 from the water department, which, he said, was the only city department showing a surplus.

The water board's finance com-

Has Made $70,000

Budenz Reports Gains Since Renouncing Communism

New York, May 9 (AP)—Ex-Communist Louis F. Budenz testified yesterday that his anti-Red activities have brought him earnings of about $70,000 since he left the party in 1945.

The defense at the Communist conspiracy trial raised the issue in an attempt to prove Budenz a prejudiced government witness.

Budenz said his earnings were from teaching, books, lectures, articles and appearances as witness in Communist trials and hearings

He said his fees as a witness in Communist cases ranged from $3 to $50 a day.

Budenz is a prosecution witness at the federal court trial of 16 second-string Communist leaders charger with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Oil Strike Hope Is on May 13 Date

WSB, Unions, Plant Managements Agree on Date

Denver, May 9 (AP)—Scarcity of high-octane aviation gasoline today ranked as the most serious effect of the nine-day-old nationwide oil strike.

There seemed little chance for immediate settlement. A possibility the strike may be extended was voiced in Denver by O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO).

The major hope seems to be a meeting May 13 between the Wage Stabilization Board and representatives of 22 striking AFL, CIO and independent unions and management of the struck refineries and pipelines.

Pinch Widely Felt

The pinch on aviation fuel has been widely felt. Air France announced flights will be cut by 50 per cent unless the quota for trans-Atlantic carriers is increased. The line has 20 flights weekly. Trans-Canada Air Lines reduced schedules of about 40 daily flights between Canada and New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago and Seattle.

A 30 per cent slash in aviation gasoline has been ordered by the government. The air force has reduced training flight hours. Military and commercial lines report shortages are affecting operations overseas and in the territories.

A report from Ottawa said Canada may curb the use of aviation gasoline in some parts of the commonwealth.

Delivery of aviation gasoline to re-sellers or consumers with a three-day supply on hand was forbidden by the government.

On the bright side, the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) suspended inventory limitations on stocks of home heating, diesel and residual fuel oil today in all of 26 states and part of four others.

Inventory controls on automobile gasoline and kerosene remain in effect in 43 states and the District of Columbia.

Works for Settlement

President Truman announced yesterday he is working hard for settlement. He said the situation is not yet serious enough for him to invoke injunctive powers of the Taft-Hartley law.

Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the WSB, indicated the dispute will be returned to the White House if efforts of the board fail. The WSB took no action on the strike at a meeting yesterday.

Feinsinger's earlier appeal for an end to the walkout pending the May 13 conclave was rejected by Knight.

National Petroleum News reported the strike has closed down

Seized by Red Prisoners

The Army announced May 8 that Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd (above), Allied Commandant of the Koje Island prison camp, had been seized by Red prisoners at the camp May 7. A fellow-officer was also seized. The Army said Dodd is still being held as a hostage. The camp is on an island off the southeast coast of Korea.

Gross Says Influence Reached Into Records

Ex-Bookie Boss Says Police Removed Data From Department Files About Him and His Men at His Direction

New York, May 9 (AP)—Boss bookie Harry Gross said today he did not understand why all the high ranking police officers he had named as accepting graft from him were not indicted last year by Brooklyn grand juries.

Gross ended two and a half days of testimony against many police officers to whom he said he had paid a million dollars a year to protect his 20 million dollar horse betting empire.

Gross amplified his testimony of yesterday that he had had police officers on his payroll withdraw fingerprint records of his men from police department files.

Gross said he also had had his own fingerprints and records of previous convictions withdrawn.

One of the lawyers for the five policemen on department trial for allegedly accepting graft asked Gross whether the court records of Gross' previous convictions were made up after his arrest in 1950.

"I don't know when it was made up," Gross said. "I told them all the pinches I had—I told them I had removed my record."

Gross said he told the grand jury that he bribed William P. O'Brien, former police commissioner, and August Flath, former chief inspector, and William Whalen, former chief of detectives, the three highest ranking officers in the police department.

Surprised at Omission

He said he was surprised they were not named in the indictment. Their names did not become public in connection with Gross' bribery ring until this week.

"I told Helfand (Julius Helfand, assistant district attorney) is there favoritism here," Gross said, referring to discussions he had before last year's criminal trial against many policemen. This trial collapsed when Gross refused to testify against the men.

"He told me not to be a lawyer," Gross added. "Perhaps someone was taken care of—I don't know. All I know is they were mentioned and they were left out."

In answer to questions from defense attorneys, Gross said he was not charging that Helfand or Brooklyn District Attorney Miles MacDonald had been bribed not to bring in the highest officers he had named.

The subject of Gross' alleged $15,000 political contribution to the 1949 campaign of formet Mayor William O'Dwyer came up.

Repeats Testimony

Gross repeated his testimony of Wednesday that he was originally asked for $1,000 for each gambling location, and added the additional information today that

Legal Move Edorsed by Massachusetts Congresswoman

Washington, May 9 (AP) — Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) said the United Nations today will be given a chance to do something about freeing William N. Oatis from a Czechoslovakian prison and prove it is "more than a debating society."

Mrs. Rogers told the House yesterday she was endorsing a legal move proposed by Luis Kutner, a Chicago lawyer specializing in habeas corpus actions, to force the Red Czech regime to re-

U.S. Sides With South Korea On Japanese-Korean Pact

Washington, May 9 (AP)—The United States is reported siding with South Korea in a dispute which thus far has blocked completion of a Japanese-Korean peace treaty.

The disagreement is over a claim by Japan to the vast properties she held before V-J Day in Korea, which for 35 years was Japanese-governed. Included are the railroads, shipping, utilities and public buildings — almost everything of value in her former territory.

Tokyo's insistence that the Korean government must agree to restore the property to its "original state" and pay indemnities for damage resulting from the current Korean conflict has stalemated treaty negotiations.

Diplomatic authorities said today that a Korean appeal to the State Department has produced a crisp opinion approved by Secretary Acheson that the Japanese claim is not valid. The American position is that Japan lost any rights she may have had in the peace treaty which last month restored her sovereignty.

In Article IV of the treaty Japan accepted the disposition of former Japanese property which was made by the U. S. military government before American occupation troops were pulled out of Korea in 1948.

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, the occupation commander, who had confiscated it all in 1945, ordered it turned over to the South Korean government. Some of the property is now privately owned.

Japan and South Korea for months have been trying to work out terms of a treaty of friendship and commerce—in effect a separate peace treaty—because the Koreans were not permitted to sign the 49-nation San Francisco pact. Technically Korea was never at war with Japan.

The South Korean ambassador to the U. S., Dr. You Chan Yang, has said that recognition of the Japanese claims would amount to "turning Korea back to the Japanese."

Wicks Heads List of 76 Attending Dinner From Ulster

New York, May 9 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared anew yesterday that he is not a candidate for president.

The 1944 and 1948 Republican nominee asked New York state's delegates to the GOP National Convention not to vote for him at any stage of the proceedings.

Dewey told the delegates:

"Everyone knows that I am for Gen. Eisenhower from the beginning to the end of this convention.

"But there has been a certain amount of scurrilous gossip in the newspaper columns that I was in truth a candidate for the nomination.

"All of you know that I am not a candidate, because I said I was not. I ask each of you in casting your vote to recognize that I am not a candidate and that you will not vote for me for any office from the beginning to the end of the convention.

"With that understanding, I am willing to have you go ahead and elect me chairman of the delegation."

Delegation Chairman

Dewey, an early supporter of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the nomination, then was unanimously elected delegation chairman.

Dewey claims that all but one of the state's powerful 96-member delegation will back Eisenhower. One delegate has declared for Sen. Robert A. Taft. Supporters of Taft say he will get at least 17 of New York's votes. Under state law, the delegates are uninstructed.

The meeting of the delegates and alternates was followed last night by the annual $100-a-plate dinner of the Republican State Committee at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. More than 2,500 persons attended.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon (R.-Calif), a principal speaker, called on GOP presidential aspirants to "publicly and unequivocally disavow" any claim to the power to seize any industry, except as the power is granted by Congress. He referred to President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

'They Promote Him'

Dewey said, "when the Republicans find a crook, they throw him out. When the Democrats

Commissioners Say Fund Not What City Had Idea It Was

The Board of Water Commissioners following its regular meeting last night announced a balance on hand of $33,424.67, a total far below the $68,685.36 surplus shown by the water department at the time the Common Council moved to transfer $50,000 from the department for street work.

The board took no action on the proposed sale of unused reservoir properties in the town of Woodstock, and said it had received no word from the State Civil Service Commission on the date of an examination to be held for the position of water department superintendent.

To Announce Date

The Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission has announced, meanwhile, that the department has received from the New York State Civil Service Commission, "a complete approval for the position of water works superintendent," and that a date for the examination will be announced.

An announcement by the local commission also said the board may appoint a provisional employe until such time as an examination can be held.

The Common Council voted Tuesday night on recommendation of Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk to transfer $50,000 from the water department, which, he said, was the only city department showing a surplus.

The water board's finance com-

Prisoners' Demands Not to Be Met While U. S. Officer Is Held; Taken at Gates

Only Thinnest Details Are Given Out About Seizure

Seoul, Korea, May 9 (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet said tonight he will use force if necessary to rescue Brig. Gen. Francis E. Dodd from the Communist prisoners of war who captured the general on Koje Island prison camp.

Van Fleet said he would not give in to the Reds' "unreasonable" demands for special privileges before they release the prison camp commander.

The U.S. Eighth Army commander made his statement after a flying trip to rebellious Koje, off the southern tip of Korea.

Van Fleet was under orders from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, "to use whatever force is necessary" to free Dodd without delay.

Held Since Wednesday

The 52-year-old Dodd has been a prisoner since Wednesday, when North Korean POWS seized him at the gates of a compound.

Ridgway said the Communists were demanding "phones, permission to organize, writing paper and some other things" before they would release Dodd.

The Army released only meager details of the new rebellion at Koje and kept newsmen from going there. First announcement of the kidnaping came early today.

Van Fleet said "we have not yet been able to determine why the guards didn't rush in for a rescue attempt. That question will be answered by a military board of inquiry."

Expresses Confidence

He expressed confidence that Dodd would not be harmed. The Eighth Army commander attached considerable significance to Dodd's own optimism over an army telephone which kept him in contact with American guards outside the stockade.

"However," Van Fleet said, "if necessary, force will be used to effect his release."

He said the bulk of the prisoner's demands were "unreasonable and cannot and will not be granted."

An Eighth Army spokesman said Dodd and Lt. Col. Wilbur Robert Raven of Newton, Tex., were seized while standing at the gate of a prison compound talking to leaders of the 6,000 Communist prisoners.

"The gate was a wide one," the spokesman said. "Dodd was standing in the center of the gate.

Organized Mob

"When the prisoners grabbed him, it was an organized mob and he was swept inside.

"But Raven was standing beside a post of the gate. When the prisoner grabbed him, he seized the post, held on, and by fighting and kicking managed to free himself. The post saved him, but Gen-

Has Made $70,000

Budenz Reports Gains Since Renouncing Communism

New York, May 9 (AP)—Ex-Communist Louis F. Budenz testified yesterday that his anti-Red activities have brought him earnings of about $70,000 since he left the party in 1945.

The defense at the Communist conspiracy trial raised the issue in an attempt to prove Budenz a prejudiced government witness.

Budenz said his earnings were from teaching, books, lectures, articles and appearances as witness in Communist trials and hearings

He said his fees as a witness in Communist cases ranged from $3 to $50 a day.

Budenz is a prosecution witness at the federal court trial of 16 second-string Communist leaders charger with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Memoriam

In memory of Scott Van Demark, Sr., who passed away two years ago today, May 9, 1950.

"With You Always"

Beside the road he walks with me,
And if my step be slow,
He pauses waiting so that he
May lead me where I go.
I feel his presence at my side,
His hand upon my hair.
His love sweeps boundless like the tide,
About me everywhere.

Awnings in Child's Room Cut Expense and Work

Save the work and expense of laundering curtains and draperies by eliminating them completely from the child's room. Instead, hang short dark green awnings with scalloped edges above each window and door.

Paint the ceiling the same shade and extend this color down the walls a few inches in the form of scallops to match the awning scallops. Paint the walls and woodwork a washable pastel green.

Rolling Cookies

If you have trouble rolling cookies out, try rolling the dough between sheets of waxed paper. No flour for rolling is needed when waxed paper is used, and this has an advantage because extra flour rolled into the dough may make the cookies tough.

Valley Street Folk Object to Dump; Called Temporary

Residents of Valley street complained to local public officials this week when the city began dumping at the end of the street to fill in a section of land.

The move, reported as only temporary, stirred complaints of unsanitary conditions and the unloading of refuse too close to houses on Valley street.

Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, said the dumping was aimed at filling in a section to raise a manhole some distance away from the end of Valley street.

Must Raise Manhole

A sewer line runs under the Sterling street dump, Steuding said, and it is necessary to raise the manhole for access to the sewer.

Meanwhile, residents of Valley street complained that the dump menance which they had endured for some time because of conditions on the Sterling street dump, have been brought too close to their homes.

Mrs. Raymond Hoetger, said today that the dumping was within 40 feet of one house on the street, and that the neighborhood is bothered with dump rats and insects as well as the dirt and other unsanitary conditions.

Mrs. Timothy Doyle also said the present dumping schedule is a neighborhood nuisance, and she said she was making efforts to take whatever effective action possible to stop it.

Fire Is Under Control

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the Sterling street dump fire, which began Tuesday was nearly under control today.

The dumping on Valley street, described as only temporary, began yesterday.

Mrs. Hoetger said that the other complaining families besides herself were those of Timothy Doyle, Mrs. Raymond Lawrence, Mrs. William Collins, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoetger and a few on Summer street.

There were eight small children on the street, she said, and she and Mrs. Doyle felt that the conditions of the temporary dump were particularly menacing to their health.

Bulldozer Operates

It was reported today that a bulldozer had pushed back some of the refuse near the end of the street and piled in some dirt, but the neighborhood still considers conditions unsatisfactory.

Residents of the street complained that the stench and smoke from dump fires have long been a menace. Rats come in their yards and houses and they are also bothered by large insects.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who has been out of the city, said upon his return this afternoon, that he was unfamiliar with details of the complaints, but he said that all such nuisances will be eliminated when the enlargement to the city incinerator is completed this year.

Three Are Hurt in Accident

Three youths were hurt about 8:45 p. m. Thursday when the automobile in which they were riding plunged 15 feet off a culvert and overturned along Route 32 near Maple Hill, state police reported. Trooper Joseph Cullen is standing in the photograph.

Kenneth DeWitt, 16, of Rosendale, a passenger, suffered right thigh and other possible injuries, troopers said, and was admitted to Kingston Hospital. His condition today was reported as "fairly good."

Lawrence Avery, 18, whom troopers listed as driver of the auto, and his brother, Gerald, 17, both of Tillson, were released after treatment at the hospital.

Lawrence Avery was issued a summons by troopers returnable before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky, town of Rosendale, any time before May 15 to answer to a charge of driving at a "dangerous speed," state police reported. Troopers E. J. Devine and Joseph Cullen reported that the automobile had been traveling north and passing another vehicle near the intersection of the road leading to Spindler's Resort when it went out of control and off the west side of the highway. The youths were taken to the hospital by Moylan's ambulance service of Rosendale. (James Anner photo)

Vining to Join Briggs Sales Staff; Smith to Texas

SCOTT O. VINING

Scott O. Vining, who for 21 years was associated with Harry F. Smith, operators of the Vining & Smith service station at Broadway and St. James street, on Monday joined the sales force of J. Ellis Briggs whose place of business is located at the junction of Albany avenue and the East Chester By-pass in the town of Ulster.

The firm of Vining & Smith was dissolved on May 1 when the lease to the service station expired.

Vining, who resides at Port Ewen, will be associated with Briggs in the sale of gas and electrical appliances, heating equipment, modern kitchens and other homemaking equipment.

Smith will enter the construction business in Houton, Texas. During the 21 years Vining & Smith operated the Socony service station at Broadway and St. James street they built up a large business through their strict attention to business and courtesy to the traveling public. Both expressed their appreciation to their friends for their loyalty.

Downtown Woman Is Called Suicide

Raymond Cassell, of 37 Meadow street, returned home from work yesterday to find his wife, Esther Cassell, 71, hanging by a rope on the door of the bathroom.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly today issued a verdict of death by suicide.

Police were notified at 5:07 p. m., by Dr. L. E. Sanford, who had answered a call to the house by the husband.

Sgt. Lemuel Howard, who with Officers Frank Sammons and James Burns, investigated, said the woman was found hanging near the bathroom with a piece of clothesline around her neck. She had been ill for some time and under the care of Dr. Sanford, Howard said.

Finds Home Locked

The husband came home from work at Island Dock at 4:45 p. m., the report said, and found all the doors of the house locked.

A woman tenant of the upstairs apartment told him she had seen Mrs. Cassell go to Maroon's store at Broadway and Meadow street at about 4 p. m., to get papers. The neighbor said she had knocked on the door a short time later, but received no answer.

Cassell entered the house by crawling through a kitchen window, and he called Dr. Sanford. The latter pronounced the woman dead at 5:05 p. m., the report said. Officer William Norton remained at the house until the body was removed by Coroner Kelly for funeral arrangements.

Surviving besides her husband, are a sister, who lives in Albany and a daughter living in Newburgh. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m., from the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street. Burial will be in the Zena Cemetery.

Water Board Says

mittee reported last night that it had a balance of $68,685.36 as of May 1 and that receipts of $3,766.55 up to May 7 brought the total to $72,451.90.

Disbursements as of May 7 included a payroll of $1,518.47 and vouchers audited and ordered paid amounting to $37,508.76 brought the total disbursements to $39,027.23 and left a balance on hand of $33,424.67.

Forthcoming Obligations

The finance committee also reported that the following estimated obligations will have to be met this summer; balance due on garage alteration contracts $4,322.42; contract for cleaning main line conduits now being undertaken, $4,000, May and June payrolls, $12,000; current bills to be paid in June, $5,000; filter plant emergency repairs, $4,000, and Cooper Lake emergency repairs to spillway "as per consulting engineers" $20,000, bringing the total to $49,322.42.

The board announced that included in the vouchers audited and ordered paid totalling $37,508.76 was a voucher for $30,000 payable to the city treasurer for redemption of water works bonds due this year.

The board also announced that its surplus on Dec. 31, 1951 was $60,210.89 and not $105,000 as announced following the meeting of the Common Council Tuesday. The board's figure was taken from the auditor's report.

The next payments of water rents are due around July 1 and the receipts will total $12,000 to $13,000. The board did not include in its estimate of future expenditures the cost of a proposed new water tank in the 12th ward.

Salary Range

The letter from the civil service commission today said the salary range for the superintendent to be appointed will be from $4,500 to $5,500 with a stipulation that a suitable person may be employed with a starting salary above the announced minimum.

The letter signed by Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the commission, said further:

"This position calls for five years of progressively responsible engineering experience in construction, maintenance, or operation of a municipal water plant system. Candidates must be graduates of a recognized college or university with a degree in either civil or sanitary engineering or any equivalent combination of experience and training to indicate ability to do the work.

"A reasonable length of time will be given to show eligibility for a license to practice, as a professional engineer in New York state. A reasonable length of time will also be given to obtain a public water treatment and a purification plant certificate issued by New York state. It is not necessary for the candidates to have these certificates at the time of the examination or the appointment by the Board of Water Commissioners. All resident of Kingston or Ulster county, may apply at the water board's office, 408 Broadway, Kingston.

"The board can appoint a provisional employe until such time as an examination can be held. The annuounced date for this examination will be given by the State Civil Service.

"In the event that not enough or any suitable candidates apply for this position, the Board of Water Commissioners, and the local Civil Service Commission will be forced to open up this examination on a state-wide basis.

"It is the earnest desire of the Board of Water Commissioners and the local Civil Service Commission to obtain local residents wherever possible."

It is expected that the board will discuss the proposed sale of reservoir properties at a future meeting.

Garden Furniture

When you select a color scheme for your garden furniture, you can paint the furniture so that it draws attenion to itself or so that it harmonizes with the background and does not detract from your flowers. If you wish colors that will blend with the background, you'll find that a combination of Hunter's green and chestnut brown is effective.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 9 (AP)—The stock market held fairly steady today with selective strength in rails and oils.

With the exception of a few wide movers, the market stretched over a range of around a point either way.

Trading was very quiet.

Shell Oil was up around 3 points at times. The company announced that its new well in the Glendive Field has shown the largest initial production yet obtained in the Montana section of the Williston Basin.

Amerada, with a huge stake in the basin, was up between 1 and 2 points.

Among other stocks advancing were Santa Fe, Chrysler, Dow Chemical, and Texas Pacific Land Trust. Lower were standard Oil (N. J.) Studebaker, Sears Roebuck, and Boeing.

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

Mystic Court, 62, Order of Amaranth, will meet in Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue, Monday at 7:45 p. m. There will be a supper at 6:30 p. m. in honor of District Deputy H. L. Edna Hawthorne and Hirschell Mayes, assistant grand lecturer. All members and Master Masons are invited. Refreshments will be served.

The first theatre in the American colonies was built in Williamsburg in 1716.

Fire Is Thought To Be Incendiary

A fire, believed of incendiary origin, damaged a storage barn near the entrance to the former Kingston Point property last night.

Men and equipment from Cornell station and Cordts Hose Company answered a call at 6:52 p. m., and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the blaze was quenched by Cordts Hose Company with a booster line.

The fire burned under lower timbers and flooring on the southwest corner of the building. It burned one sill and charred a section of floor timbers.

The building was used for storages of benches and other equipment formerly used in the park.

Chief Murphy said it appeared definitely that the blaze had been started.

A call at 11:46 p. m., to 146 Washington avenue was for a slight fire caused by a short circuit in a car owned by James Devine. It slightly damaged the wiring.

Two lines were still being played on the Sterling street dump fire today. Chief Murphy said, however, that the fire which started Tuesday was nearly under control.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ada Roberts who died May 6 were held Thursday at 2 p. m. from the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street. Services were conducted by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church. Burial took place in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Wednesday night ritualistic services were held by Kinsgton Chapter, 155, OES, and Mystic Court, 62, Order of the Amaranth, of which Mrs. Roberts was a member.

Peter J. Eckert

Peter J. Eckert, of 19 Hasbrouck avenue, died shortly after being admitted to the Kingston Hospital Thursday afternoon. He was seized with a heart attack while working at 63 Hasbrouck avenue. For many years he and his father, the late Willis Eckert, were building contractors in this city. He was a veteran of World War 1, serving in France from 1917 to 1919. Surviving him is his wife, Leah Van Kleeck Eckert; a son John Eckert, of Poughkeepsie; an uncle, Howard Burger of Esopus; and two aunts, Mrs. Mary Burger and Miss Hattie Eckert of Kingston. The funeral will be held Saturday with services by the Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m., from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home. Burial will be in the St. Remy Cemetery.

Frederick S. Eckert

The funeral of Frederick S. Eckert of Esopus was held Thursday at the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Baines of the Reformed Church of Hyde Park conducting the service assisted by Dr. Montreville Seeley of the Saugerties Baptist Church. The Rev. Mr. Baines conducts services at the Union Center Chapel where Mr. Eckert was born. The funeral was largely attended and the home was filled with flowers. While the body reposed at the funeral home many friends called to pay their respects. A large delegation from the New York Telephone Company and another from the Yacht Club also called. Burial took place in St. Remy Cemetery where the Revs. Mr. Baines and Seeley conducted the committal service. Bearers were Leonard Mott, Alva Linderman, David MacFarland, Wallace Wood, Richard Heroy and Jasen Berry.

Memoriam

In memory of Scott Van Demark, Sr., who passed away two years ago today, May 9, 1950.

"With You Always"

Beside the road he walks with me,
And if my step be slow,
He pauses waiting so that he
May lead me where I go.
I feel his presence at my side,
His hand upon my hair.
His love sweeps boundless like the tide,
About me everywhere.

Awnings in Child's Room Cut Expense and Work

Save the work and expense of laundering curtains and draperies by eliminating them completely from the child's room. Instead, hang short dark green awnings with scalloped edges above each window and door.

Paint the ceiling the same shade and extend this color down the walls a few inches in the form of scallops to match the awning scallops. Paint the walls and woodwork a washable pastel green.

Rolling Cookies

If you have trouble rolling cookies out, try rolling the dough between sheets of waxed paper. No flour for rolling is needed when waxed paper is used, and this has an advantage because extra flour rolled into the dough may make the cookies tough.

Valley Street Folk Object to Dump; Called Temporary

Residents of Valley street complained to local public officials this week when the city began dumping at the end of the street to fill in a section of land.

The move, reported as only temporary, stirred complaints of unsanitary conditions and the unloading of refuse too close to houses on Valley street.

Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, said the dumping was aimed at filling in a section to raise a manhole some distance away from the end of Valley street.

Must Raise Manhole

A sewer line runs under the Sterling street dump, Steuding said, and it is necessary to raise the manhole for access to the sewer.

Meanwhile, residents of Valley street complained that the dump menance which they had endured for some time because of conditions on the Sterling street dump, have been brought too close to their homes.

Mrs. Raymond Hoetger, said today that the dumping was within 40 feet of one house on the street, and that the neighborhood is bothered with dump rats and insects as well as the dirt and other unsanitary conditions.

Mrs. Timothy Doyle also said the present dumping schedule is a neighborhood nuisance, and she said she was making efforts to take whatever effective action possible to stop it.

Fire Is Under Control

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the Sterling street dump fire, which began Tuesday was nearly under control today.

The dumping on Valley street, described as only temporary, began yesterday.

Mrs. Hoetger said that the other complaining families besides herself were those of Timothy Doyle, Mrs. Raymond Lawrence, Mrs. William Collins, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoetger and a few on Summer street.

There were eight small children on the street, she said, and she and Mrs. Doyle felt that the conditions of the temporary dump were particularly menacing to their health.

Bulldozer Operates

It was reported today that a bulldozer had pushed back some of the refuse near the end of the street and piled in some dirt, but the neighborhood still considers conditions unsatisfactory.

Residents of the street complained that the stench and smoke from dump fires have long been a menace. Rats come in their yards and houses and they are also bothered by large insects.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who has been out of the city, said upon his return this afternoon, that he was unfamiliar with details of the complaints, but he said that all such nuisances will be eliminated when the enlargement to the city incinerator is completed this year.

Three Are Hurt in Accident

Three youths were hurt about 8:45 p. m. Thursday when the automobile in which they were riding plunged 15 feet off a culvert and overturned along Route 32 near Maple Hill, state police reported. Trooper Joseph Cullen is standing in the photograph.

Kenneth DeWitt, 16, of Rosendale, a passenger, suffered right thigh and other possible injuries, troopers said, and was admitted to Kingston Hospital. His condition today was reported as "fairly good."

Lawrence Avery, 18, whom troopers listed as driver of the auto, and his brother, Gerald, 17, both of Tillson, were released after treatment at the hospital.

Lawrence Avery was issued a summons by troopers returnable before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky, town of Rosendale, any time before May 15 to answer to a charge of driving at a "dangerous speed," state police reported. Troopers E. J. Devine and Joseph Cullen reported that the automobile had been traveling north and passing another vehicle near the intersection of the road leading to Spindler's Resort when it went out of control and off the west side of the highway. The youths were taken to the hospital by Moylan's ambulance service of Rosendale. (James Anner photo)

Vining to Join Briggs Sales Staff; Smith to Texas

SCOTT O. VINING

Scott O. Vining, who for 21 years was associated with Harry F. Smith, operators of the Vining & Smith service station at Broadway and St. James street, on Monday joined the sales force of J. Ellis Briggs whose place of business is located at the junction of Albany avenue and the East Chester By-pass in the town of Ulster.

Downtown Woman Is Called Suicide

Raymond Cassell, of 37 Meadow street, returned home from work yesterday to find his wife, Esther Cassell, 71, hanging by a rope on the door of the bathroom.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly today issued a verdict of death by suicide.

Police were notified at 5:07 p. m., by Dr. L. E. Sanford, who had answered a call to the house by the husband.

Sgt. Lemuel Howard, who with Officers Frank Sammons and James Burns, investigated, said the woman was found hanging near the bathroom with a piece of clothesline around her neck. She had been ill for some time and under the care of Dr. Sanford, Howard said.

Finds Home Locked

The husband came home from work at Island Dock at 4:45 p. m., the report said, and found all the doors of the house locked.

A woman tenant of the upstairs apartment told him she had seen Mrs. Cassell go to Maroon's store at Broadway and Meadow street at about 4 p. m., to get papers. The neighbor said she had knocked on the door a short time later, but received no answer.

Cassell entered the house by crawling through a kitchen window, and he called Dr. Sanford. The latter pronounced the woman dead at 5:05 p. m., the report said. Officer William Norton remained at the house until the body was removed by Coroner Kelly for funeral arrangements.

Surviving besides her husband, are a sister, who lives in Albany and a daughter living in Newburgh. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m., from the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street. Burial will be in the Zena Cemetery.

Water Board Says

mittee reported last night that it had a balance of $68,685.36 as of May 1 and that receipts of $3,766.55 up to May 7 brought the total to $72,451.90.

Disbursements as of May 7 included a payroll of $1,518.47 and vouchers audited and ordered paid amounting to $37,508.76 brought the total disbursements to $39,027.23 and left a balance on hand of $33,424.67.

Forthcoming Obligations

The finance committee also reported that the following estimated obligations will have to be met this summer; balance due on garage alteration contracts $4,322.42; contract for cleaning main line conduits now being undertaken, $4,000, May and June payrolls, $12,000; current bills to be paid in June, $5,000; filter plant emergency repairs, $4,000, and Cooper Lake emergency repairs to spillway "as per consulting engineers" $20,000, bringing the total to $49,322.42.

The board announced that included in the vouchers audited and ordered paid totalling $37,508.76 was a voucher for $30,000 payable to the city treasurer for redemption of water works bonds due this year.

The board also announced that its surplus on Dec. 31, 1951 was $60,210.89 and not $105,000 as announced following the meeting of the Common Council Tuesday. The board's figure was taken from the auditor's report.

The next payments of water rents are due around July 1 and the receipts will total $12,000 to $13,000. The board did not include in its estimate of future expenditures the cost of a proposed new water tank in the 12th ward.

Salary Range

The letter from the civil service commission today said the salary range for the superintendent to be appointed will be from $4,500 to $5,500 with a stipulation that a suitable person may be employed with a starting salary above the announced minimum.

The letter signed by Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the commission, said further:

"This position calls for five years of progressively responsible engineering experience in construction, maintenance, or operation of a municipal water plant system. Candidates must be graduates of a recognized college or university with a degree in either civil or sanitary engineering or any equivalent combination of experience and training to indicate ability to do the work.

"A reasonable length of time will be given to show eligibility for a license to practice, as a professional engineer in New York state. A reasonable length of time will also be given to obtain a public water treatment and a purification plant certificate issued by New York state. It is not necessary for the candidates to have these certificates at the time of the examination or the appointment by the Board of Water Commissioners. All resident of Kingston or Ulster county, may apply at the water board's office, 408 Broadway, Kingston.

"The board can appoint a provisional employe until such time as an examination can be held. The annuounced date for this examination will be given by the State Civil Service.

"In the event that not enough or any suitable candidates apply for this position, the Board of Water Commissioners, and the local Civil Service Commission will be forced to open up this examination on a state-wide basis.

"It is the earnest desire of the Board of Water Commissioners and the local Civil Service Commission to obtain local residents wherever possible."

It is expected that the board will discuss the proposed sale of reservoir properties at a future meeting.

Garden Furniture

When you select a color scheme for your garden furniture, you can paint the furniture so that it draws attenion to itself or so that it harmonizes with the background and does not detract from your flowers. If you wish colors that will blend with the background, you'll find that a combination of Hunter's green and chestnut brown is effective.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 9 (AP)—The stock market held fairly steady today with selective strength in rails and oils.

With the exception of a few wide movers, the market stretched over a range of around a point either way.

Trading was very quiet.

Shell Oil was up around 3 points at times. The company announced that its new well in the Glendive Field has shown the largest initial production yet obtained in the Montana section of the Williston Basin.

Amerada, with a huge stake in the basin, was up between 1 and 2 points.

Among other stocks advancing were Santa Fe, Chrysler, Dow Chemical, and Texas Pacific Land Trust. Lower were standard Oil (N. J.) Studebaker, Sears Roebuck, and Boeing.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city: branch office, 41 John street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

Mystic Court, 62, Order of Amaranth, will meet in Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue, Monday at 7:45 p. m. There will be a supper at 6:30 p. m. in honor of District Deputy H. L. Edna Hawthorne and Hirschell Mayes, assistant grand lecturer. All members and Master Masons are invited. Refreshments will be served.

The first theatre in the American colonies was built in Williamsburg in 1716.

Fire Is Thought To Be Incendiary

A fire, believed of incendiary origin, damaged a storage barn near the entrance to the former Kingston Point property last night.

Men and equipment from Cornell station and Cordts Hose Company answered a call at 6:52 p. m., and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the blaze was quenched by Cordts Hose Company with a booster line.

The fire burned under lower timbers and flooring on the southwest corner of the building. It burned one sill and charred a section of floor timbers.

The building was used for storages of benches and other equipment formerly used in the park.

Chief Murphy said it appeared definitely that the blaze had been started.

A call at 11:46 p. m., to 146 Washington avenue was for a slight fire caused by a short circuit in a car owned by James Devine. It slightly damaged the wiring.

Two lines were still being played on the Sterling street dump fire today. Chief Murphy said, however, that the fire which started Tuesday was nearly under control.

Sawkill Man Held On Larceny Charge

Anson L. Curtis, 23, of Sawkill was arrested Thursday afternoon by County Identification Officer Earl Conro and Deputy Sheriff James Marano on a charge of first degree grand larceny.

The charge involved the alleged taking of an automobile without its owner's permission, according to sheriff's office men.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Roger Loughran, Curtis waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action.

the Bulgarian army. He is a Soviet general.

In this respect, it is significant that Taskov was fired shortly after he dared criticize Vice Premier Ivan Mikhailov, who is the eyes of Moscow in Sofia, even supervising Chervenkov. Mikhailov, too, was a Soviet general.

All Are Weeded Out

All the old intelligentsia of the party is being weeded out. This means the Dimitrov people. They are disappearing in favor of the Soviet fanatics. All the moderates are gone. Many of the old Communists would leave the party if they dared. But they would be accused of "traichokostovism." That is another form of deviation for which former Vice Premier Traicho Kostov was executed.

The opposition parties in Bulgaria long ago were stamped out, after Nikola Petkov, the Peasant party leader, was hanged in 1947 on a charge of anti-state activity. Nor is there any religious voice heard save that of the priests of the dominated Orthodox Church. Three years ago, to the accompaniment of outraged cries of anger from the western world, Bulgaria's Communists tried and condemned to prison the leading Protestant clergy of the country. Thereafter, Moscow moved in swiftly.

Are Worse Off Daily

While Moscow tightens the screws, the Bulgarian people find themselves worse off every day. Their economy is completely ruled by the Soviet Union. The Communist Central Committee dictates to the peasants on such matters as depth of plowing, means of breeding cattle, methods and time of sowing and harvesting.

Farmers' wheat in the agricultural country is seized by the government at low prices. Bread is a government monopoly, retailed at high prices and tremendous profit.

Collective farms are operated under the Soviet brigade system. The brigade is broken down into "links" or "zvenos" of 10 workers each, under a zvenovod, or leader. A brigadier, always a Communist, supervises the brigade. He is watched by another Communist assigned especially for political work.

The principal entertainment in the farm village is the lecture. These are innumerable, and attendance is compulsory. Typical subjects are loyalty to Stalin and technical farm matters.

Wherever there is resistance to collective farming, the militia is busy. In some instances the militia surrounds a village, arrests the citizens, loads them into cattle cars and transports them to the provinces for forced labor.

The split between the people and the party widens daily. Bulgars resent the concerted drive to Russify them. Though closely tied to Russia by language and racial similarities, they have a tradition of independent spirit which balks at Russian domination.

But their army is fully under Russian control. All military schools have Soviet instructors. The commander of the Sofia Military Academy is a Soviet general. Soviet specialists hold top posts in factories, agricultural enterprises and the like, with salaries 10 times those of Bulgars.

Deportations of large numbers of people are reported beginning anew, particularly from areas near the western and southern frontiers. Many non-Communists are being expelled from big cities to make room for industrial workers.

The former peasant premier of Bulgaria, Georgi M. Dimitrov—no relation to the Communist Dimitrov—predicts that many Communists, fearing the peasants, will "try to adapt themselves to the peasant resistance because of their fears of tomorrow."

Dimitrov lives in exile in the United States and is secretary of the international peasant union. He says:

"Even some of the Communists believe in our final victory. I feel strongly that some day we will go back, that we will get together and build up a real democracy of independent people in full cooperation with our neighbors, looking forward to the day when the eastern and central European peoples can come to a real federation."

Far from giving up hope, the leaders abroad of the enslaved peoples in eastern Europe cling to the belief the day of reckoning is coming: the day the Communist empire will fall apart.

"We are going back some day," one of these exiled leaders told me. "When we do, there is many a Communist who will throw himself on the mercy of the peasants, knowing he will find the spark of humanity that the Communists do not possess."

Esopus Town Has New Booklet on Area Features

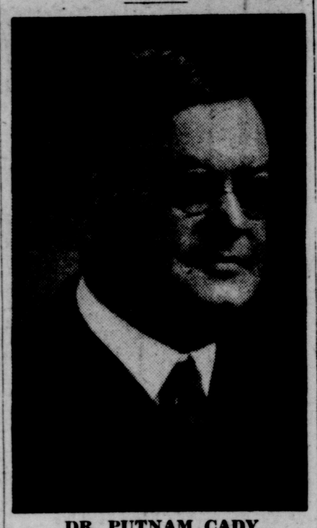
A revised edition of the annual vacation booklet published by the Chamber of Commerce of the Town of Esopus has just come off the press and is now ready for distribution. There will be 8,000 copies of the booklet distributed setting forth the resort, recreational and industrial advantages of the area which comprises the communities of Port Ewen, Ulster Park, West Park, Rifton, St. Remy, Connelly and Esopus.

As usual the folder of 12 pages contains numerous pictures of historical points in the area as well as an aerial view of the town in the Mirror Lake area. A restaurant and tavern, boarding house and hotel, bungalow, camp and tourist house listing as well as a business directory of the town is contained in the folder. Prominent fruit growers of the area are also listed. Transportation facilities to and from the area are listed and a large two-page map of the area with the area communities and highways leading to the area are shown.

The folder was printed by the Freeman Publishing Company and copies are now available at the Town of Esopus Building, Port Ewen, for local distribution.

Information centers are maintained at the Town Clerk's office in Port Ewen, John Beaver's Gas Station in Esopus, Charles Kidd's Service Station in Rifton and at the Clarence Wells Station in Ulster Park. General information may be had by writing the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce at Port Ewen.

Dr. Putnam Cady To Preach Here Sunday Morning



DR. PUTNAM CADY

The Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady of Fonda, who will be celebrating his 89th birthday May 13, will be guest preacher Sunday at 11 a. m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, which church he served with distinction as pastor for 15 years until 1931. On his visit to Kingston he will be accompanied by Mrs. Cady, who is director of three choirs and organist at the Reformed Church of Fonda, where the Rev. Gerard Koster, former pastor of the Reformed Church at Stone Ridge, is pastor. Dr. and Mrs. Cady will arrive in Kingston by noon tomorrow, and they will stay until next Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The subject of Dr. Cady's sermon will be Building. The Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the church, will preside. Both junior and senior choirs, under the direction of Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, will each be heard in special numbers; and William J. McVey, Jr., baritone, will render a solo. Immediately following the service there will be an informal reception to Dr. and Mrs. Cady in adjoining hall of Ramsey building, which was erected during Dr. Cady's ministry. An invitation is extended to their many former friends in Kingston to attend the service and reception, when coffee and cake will be served by the ladies of the church.

In a letter to the Rev. Mr. McVey recently Dr. Cady disclosed his amazing activity for one so advanced in years in these words: "I have been preaching every Sunday since the first of last September, and will have to continue until the first of August at the Tribes Hill Presbyterian Church, where I have preached for a year and a half now."

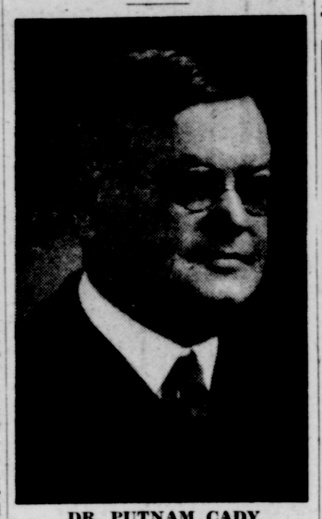
Dr. Putnam Cady To Preach Here Sunday Morning



DR. PUTNAM CADY

The Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady of Fonda, who will be celebrating his 89th birthday May 13, will be guest preacher Sunday at 11 a. m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, which church he served with distinction as pastor for 15 years until 1931. On his visit to Kingston he will be accompanied by Mrs. Cady, who is director of three choirs and organist at the Reformed Church of Fonda, where the Rev. Gerard Koster, former pastor of the Reformed Church at Stone Ridge, is pastor. Dr. and Mrs. Cady will arrive in Kingston by noon tomorrow, and they will stay until next Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The subject of Dr. Cady's sermon will be Building. The Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the church, will preside. Both junior and senior choirs, under the direction of Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, will each be heard in special numbers; and William J. McVey, Jr., baritone, will render a solo. Immediately following the service there will be an informal reception to Dr. and Mrs. Cady in adjoining hall of Ramsey building, which was erected during Dr. Cady's ministry. An invitation is extended to their many former friends in Kingston to attend the service and reception, when coffee and cake will be served by the ladies of the church.

In a letter to the Rev. Mr. McVey recently Dr. Cady disclosed his amazing activity for one so advanced in years in these words: "I have been preaching every Sunday since the first of last September, and will have to continue until the first of August at the Tribes Hill Presbyterian Church, where I have preached for a year and a half now."

Cpl. Maryon Is Home After Korean Service

Cpl. Stewart Maryon is spending a 30 day leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Maryon of Saugerties. Cpl. Maryon, a graduate of Saugerties High School, enlisted in the regular army through the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station in March, 1950. Receiving his basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., he was transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C., where he was stationed until ordered overseas to Japan in February 1951. While in Japan he attended the welding school conducted at Eta Jima and also cooks and bakers' school. Upon completion of the later school he was transferred to the Korean front. Wounded three times while in Korea he was returned to this country in April of this year. At the termination of his 30-day leave, Cpl. Stewart will report to Camp Kilmer, N. J., for reassignment.

Elliott in School

Pvt. Gerald Elliott, son of Mrs. Mildred Elliott, Ellenville, is attending school in Fort Story, Va., to qualify as a truck driver. Pvt. Elliott enlisted in the regular army through the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting station in January of this year and received his basic training at Fort Devens, Mass., and was promoted to private upon completion of basic training in April.

At Dental School

Airman Third Class Melvin Hornsberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hornsberger, Ellenville, is attending the dental technical school at Great Lakes, Ill., according to information received by the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station. Airman Hornsberger attended Ellenville High School and enlisted in the air force in February of this year. He received his basic training at Sampson Air Force Base near Geneva, Francis Hornsberger, a brother of Melvin, enlisted in the air force May 6 of this year.

BERLIN AIR CORRIDOR

After some seven years of "incidents" involving outrageous Russian behavior toward the citizens of free nations, what new expressions of indignation are left to us?

Now we have an apparently calculated attack by two Russian jets on an Air France passenger plane flying to Berlin. Three persons were wounded, one seriously, and only sheer luck prevented the French craft from crashing in flames.

You might be able to make excuse for the Russians if only one attacker was involved. That there were two, who made four passes altogether at the passenger ship, seems to take the matter out of the realm of innocent mistakes.

The Air France pilot firmly declares he was flying in the prescribed air corridor maintained by the western powers across Soviet Germany to Berlin.

The Russians have replied with one of their standard denials, saying the plane was outside the corridor and refused to land when directed to do so.

Considering the Russians' reputation for truthfulness, there is no reason to accept their version of the incident. But even if it were correct that the Air France plane had strayed beyond the corridor, isn't shooting it up a pretty drastic penalty for a navigational error?

A civilized nation, confronted with such a violation, would probably assume the first time that it was accidental. Officials might lodge a mild protest, with stiffer reminders following if more mistakes occurred.

Who but the Russians would turn to their guns the instant an error was detected?

What is really to be feared in this case, however, is not just that the Russians have shown again their essential bestiality. The danger is that this incident is the opener in a new series of terroristic acts designed to limit the value of the air corridor in the hope perhaps of promoting a new and more effective blockade of Berlin.

The Allied course is clear. We operate in the Berlin air corridor by right, not by sufferance of the Russians. If it becomes necessary to demonstrate the fact more bluntly, we can do it. We can supply fighter protection for our Berlin traffic.

Doubtless the Soviet Union will think twice before ordering its brave pilots to tangle with American flyers equipped to deal them the same kind of harsh handling the Reds gave the defenseless Air France passengers and crew.

Theer is no truth to the report that a sponsor wishes to stage a weekly atomic bomb explosion on television. Besides it could never compete for excitement with some of those old cowboy movies.

RIOTS IN JAPAN

While Japanese flags, honoring the return of Japan to independence, still hung in the streets of Tokyo, organized mobs of Communists staged riots and demonstrations against Americans. Nowhere are the thought processes of the Communists revealed more clearly than in Japan where Communists are an extremely small minority of the population.

The peace treaty granted to Japan was one of the most generous ever given a defeated nation. Under the terms of the original American operation the Japanese government was developed to the extent that its citizens were granted the greatest amount of individual liberty in the history of the country. Japan has been developed into a country which renounced war forever in its new constitution.

But peace and progress through democratic methods are displeasing to Communists. Social reforms evolved in a democratic fashion mean less chance of a violent revolution. Good will with the rest of the world cannot be tolerated by the Japanese Communists because respect for civilization, progress and freedom of individuals implies disrespect and opposition to Russia, the seat of international Communism.

Americans must not judge the sentiment of Japan by the May Day riots. The majority of Japanese wish to be friendly to the United States. But frustrating the will of the majority is a standard Red aim and if the demonstrations inspire distrust and misunderstanding of Japan in the United States the riots will have served their purpose.

A new small adding machine with only ten keys has been developed. It can add up to 99,999,999,999.99. That's better than most of us could do on our fingers.

Canada raised taxes on cigarettes and the revenue promptly declined. This demonstrates the law of diminishing returns. Can the U. S. take a hint?

HOLLYWOOD MEETS A CRISIS

For many years those who managed the motion picture industry took the position that they were not concerned with the politics of those engaged in the industry; that the only criterion of employment was talent. In 1947, this question became a national issue because of the appearance of "friendly" and "unfriendly" witnesses before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, some of the unfriendly ones going to prison for contempt. It became clear during those hearings that Communists had infiltrated the industry.

The motion picture companies met at the Waldorf-Astoria where decisions were made not to employ known Communists or those who took advantage of the Fifth Amendment to avoid admitting that they were Communists. This placed the industry in an awkward position legally.

On the other hand, voluntary groups of citizens, acting independently of each other, not only picketed theatres, but also, by word of mouth, denounced certain motion pictures and their personalities. There is no way of combatting such movements of the people, as no one can be forced to spend his money in a theatre.

The top management of the industry, faced by these facts, were compelled to meet this problem by practical measures. Obviously, the presence of Communists, pro-Communists, fellow-travelers and opportunists, who had made bad records for themselves, was encountering a sales resistance.

The industry organized to combat criticism, but most efforts failed because the records of the individuals criticized could only be voided by themselves and their own subsequent conduct.

Beginning last summer, a series of meetings between some motion picture producers and a few active anti-Communists resulted in a formula which is now being tried with a surprising measure of success. This formula may be stated as follows:

1. As long as such organizations of the people as the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterans, etc., take a definite position on the employment of Communists, pro-Communists, etc., in the motion picture industry, a picture in which they appear is defective and bad business;

2. No person can clear another of the taint of being favorably disposed to our national enemy, Soviet Russia. Only the person himself, who made the record, can unmake it, by a frank statement of the facts of the relationship;

3. It is not necessary for such a person to hire anyone to clear him; all that needs to be done is for him to look at his already reported record and to write a letter to his employer stating the facts as he knows or believes them to be;

4. Such letters are circulated, at first confidentially, and after criticism for the record, among those most active in their opposition to the employment of Communists in motion pictures.

This formula has encountered less resistance than had been anticipated. First tried out by Columbia, it is now in full force at Twentieth Century-Fox and M. G. M. Warner Brothers, R. K. O., and Republic have programs of their own which have been effective.

The simple method of self-confession is more realistic and to the point for so large a number of persons, many of whom have truthful explanations for their acts; some are obviously innocent of bad intent.

The enthusiastic and active cooperation of top management was not anticipated. Thus far, each of the companies adopting the program had used its own methods. The task is not easy because often involved are contractual relations, prospective lawsuits to which the Communists always resort, and loss of revenue on pictures already made. Nevertheless, the program of meeting these problems continues in a day-by-day fashion. There is no reason why any motion picture, radio or television company, any more than any other American enterprise, should employ a known Communist.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

DESCRIPTION OF A HEART STROKE

When a middle-aged person experiences a severe pain behind the breast bone that seems to last longer than previous pains of the same sort, it is a wise precaution to call in the family physician. The pain may be caused by gas pressure from the stomach immediately below the heart, or by gas pressure from the large bowel (colon), which crosses the upper abdomen from right to left a few inches below the heart exerting pressure on the diaphragm and thence on the heart.

However, an agonizing vise-like pressure beneath the breast bone, if accompanied by other symptoms, should be considered a heart seizure—coronary thrombosis—and treated accordingly.

In his book "The Patient Past Fifty," Dr. Ernst P. Boss, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York city, in describing a heart stroke states: "The patient is seized with an agonizing constricting pain beneath sternum (breast bone) and feels as though the chest were being compressed by a heavy weight. The pain may radiate or extend down one or both arms or up to the neck. He becomes tremendously apprehensive and breaks out in a cold sweat. Symptoms of shock appear. The blood pressure drops, the pulse becomes feeble and thready. Some die in acute attack but in most cases there is slow recovery from the shock, particularly after morphine has been administered. In some the pain subsides in the course of an hour; in others it may persist, gradually growing less, for 24 hours."

With recovery from shock, the patient feels fairly well but very weak from the terrible experience he has been through. After the attack of pain grows less and disappears the patient feels well, the heart sounds are good and the blood pressure comes back to its former level. However, damage has been done to the heart and the temperature rises to meet or overcome this danger, rising from 101° as high as 104°, gradually coming down during the next few days. The white corpuscles of the blood increase greatly in number.

"In some cases evidence of damage to the heart shows itself by shortness of breath and possibly an accumulation of water (edema) in lower part of the chest," Dr. Boss writes.

The characteristics of a typical heart stroke (coronary thrombosis) should be known to us all. The immediate treatment is complete rest in bed till the physician arrives.

Unfair, He Says

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — General Eisenhower has decided not to follow the precedent of Wendell Willkie toward the oil barons of Texas, including fabulously wealthy Roy Cullen.

When Willkie toured Texas during his 1940 presidential campaign, he was warned in advance to be especially nice to Cullen. The big oilman, Willkie was advised, was good for heavy campaign contributions.

However, Willkie, either forgetting or ignoring this advice, shook hands with Cullen rather casually when he got to Dallas, did not single him out for special attention. Later, when told that he had slighted the big oilman, Willkie observed:

"You know, the good Lord put all this oil in the ground, then someone comes along who hasn't been a success at doing anything else, and takes it out of the ground.

"The minute he does that," observed Willkie, "he considers himself an expert on everything from politics to petticoats."

Ike Reverses Willkie

Friends of politically green Ike Eisenhower are seeing to it that he doesn't make the same faux pas. That's why the hands of Texas oilmen Roy Cullen and Sid Richardson are seen in the letter Ike has written to Jack Porter of Houston putting himself on record in favor of the oilmen in regard to Tidelands Oil.

The fact that Eisenhower, after refusing to take a position on any other domestic question, and after letting it be known he would make almost no speeches before the Chicago convention in July, finally takes a position on Tidelands Oil, is no accident.

It was arranged first by Sid Richardson, who took a special trip to Paris for the purpose. Second, it was calculated to win the support of Roy Cullen. For Jack Porter, to whom Ike wrote the letter, long has been Cullen's henchman and political messenger. Cullen has sent Porter to Washington from time to time to keep an eye on the 27½ per cent oil-depletion tax allowance which sets oilmen apart from others so favorably when it comes to figuring out their income taxes.

Porter also dumped $5,000 into the Joe McCarthy campaign to defeat Senator Tydings in Maryland, who was a strong supporter of Ike's policies, while McCarthy has been a bitter opponent of Ike's. Five thousand dollars is a lot of money for a Texan to send all the way to Maryland, and a lot of people are wondering why; and whether some of it might have come from Cullen.

Porter also is close to ex-Speaker Joe Martin, a potent backer of General MacArthur, and no friend of Eisenhower's. Porter even tells friends that he had $50,000 available from Cullen to help Martin during the 1948 convention in case of a deadlock and a chance to nominate Joe.

These are some of the things that Eisenhower undoubtedly didn't know when he wrote the Tidelands "Dear Jack" letter to Jack Porter.

"A Little Knowledge"

Eisenhower did know, however, something about the battle between two Texas politicians — Porter and Henry Zweifel—to become Republican national committeemen. For, in the fall of 1950, he remarked to GOP friends that if Porter were made GOP national committeeman from Texas, he, Ike, would get the Texas delegation in 1952. Ike even said that he was going to talk to Helen Reid, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune and a potent force in GOP politics, about speaking to Guy Gabrielson in order to help get Porter the job.

In the end, Porter was defeated. Zweifel got the committee post.

Undoubtedly it was to strengthen Porter's hand in Texas that the "Dear Jack" letter, taking a position on Tidelands Oil, was sent him. However, that letter is being scrutinized by politicians from coast to coast, as an indication of how the general will handle local leaders if and when he finally takes off the uniform.

Judging from the "Dear Jack" letter, their conclusion is that a little political knowledge is a dangerous thing.

Dodging Dictator

The dictator of Nicaragua, Anastasio Somoza, went through some strange gymnastics while in Washington on his uninvited "official" visit. President Somoza was en route from Nicaragua to the Leahy clinic in Boston and had sent word to the White House that he wouldn't think of passing through the U.S.A. without paying his respects to the man who, as senator from Missouri, once visited him while investigating the Pan American highway during the war.

So the White House, though loath to receive a dictator, nevertheless gave the Nicaraguan president a luncheon.

During the rest of his visit, General Somoza was mercurial to say the least. First he called a press conference. But, when the press arrived, he refused to come downstairs. The president, it was explained, was ill. Next day, however, the president of Nicaragua was not too ill to attend a baseball game and threw out the ball to the Washington Senators. He even caught a foul ball himself. Later that day he attended a big cocktail party.

Next important item on his schedule of entertainment was a special meeting of the organization of the American Republics, followed by a full-dress luncheon at the Pan American Union.

However, some Latin-American ambassadors, not anxious to pay tribute to a dictator declined. They were diplomatically "absent" or diplomatically "ill."

Perhaps General Somoza heard about this. At any rate, at 11 a. m., just before the meeting of the American Republics, Somoza called the whole thing off. He was too ill to attend, it was explained. Whereupon some of the diplomats who had been "out of town" or "ill" mysteriously found themselves back in town.

The ambassador of Honduras, for instance, was "out of town" at 11 a. m., but was seen in town at 11:30, just 30 minutes after he heard that the meeting in honor of Somoza was called off.

The Most Arid Place in the World!

The most arid part of the world is not the Sahara Desert but the eleven square miles of the ruins of the town of Chan Chan near Trujillo, Peru. No rain had fallen there since 1400. The dry spell was broken in March, 1925, when a rain of torrential proportions fell for seven days and nights to break the 525 year drought. It stopped as suddenly as it started, and no rain has fallen there since. Chan Chan is the former capital of the pre-Columbian kingdom of Great Chimo.

Curious Angle of 'Loopholes' Might Be Stickler for Democrats in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 9—Just a few weeks ago some of the Democratic senators were talking about the necessity of closing the "loopholes" in the tax laws. It will be interesting to see how solicitous the Senate and House will be about "loopholes" now that Senator Williams of Delaware has revealed the curious method by which campaign contributors to the New York State Democratic Committee were able to get a tax deduction for what apparently was a political contribution.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act, in barring political contributions by corporations, puts a "loan" in the same category as a contribution. In the cases exposed by Senator Williams, individuals made loans to the New York State Democratic Committee and then claimed that the loans could be repaid in full and hence the unpaid balances were deductible as losses, or bad debts, for income-tax purposes.

There is no law against an individual making a loan—or, for that matter, a contribution—to a political committee. But the question of whether such a contribution is a legitimate business expense for the individual is one that has many novel aspects.

Thus, it is true that many individuals who are engaged in business make campaign contributions with the expectation that they will receive government favors if the political party that they support, or the individual candidate that they help, wins the election. If their favorite candidate is defeated, it is obviously a risk, and the treasury, when confronted with losses due to speculation, does not make any distinction between ventures engaged in with a hope of profit and those which are engaged in as a result of poor judgment.

But the real question is whether a loan made to a political committee can be regarded as an investment or even as a business expense on the part of an individual. Certainly it is something new to have the Bureau of Internal Revenue declare that loans made to a Democratic political committee could not have been paid off and that hence losses could be deducted on the portion of the loan which was not reimbursed. The State Democratic Committee is a continuing body. The loans in question, which were made several years prior to the time when a ruling was first asked of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in 1948, apparently were not paid because the State Democratic Committee claimed that it did not have the money to reimburse the lenders. But it probably did raise money in subsequent campaigns through later contributions.

Every political committee goes in the hole during a campaign and usually makes up the deficit after election. Political committees of the losing party have a harder time collecting contributions after election day than those which are victorious at the polls. But because political committees exist from campaign to campaign and have a certain power to raise money at all times, it is rather surprising that the Treasury Department took the position that, because the loans had not been repaid, they never could be repaid.

The U. S. deputy commissioner of internal revenue took the view that the New York State Democratic Committee "has no assets of any consequence" and that "throwing the committee into bankruptcy would have accomplished nothing towards the payment of the obligations."

This rule is often invoked in business transactions and the courts have ruled that a bad-debt deduction can be claimed in the year in which there is a fixed event or some circumstance that determines definitely that the debt cannot be collected. But the question really does not turn so much on whether a Democratic state committee is analogous to a business. The problem is related solely to the question of whether, in the guise of a loan, a political contribution has been made. The issue is whether there was at any time a "loan transaction" or whether continuously there was an understanding that at least a part of the sums would be written off as unpaid loans.

The Treasury Department usually looks to the nature of the transaction in its rulings, and a loan to a political committee would, on its face, in most instances be regarded as a contribution, because political committees notoriously are unable to accumulate assets or to give security to the lenders.

It seems probable that legislation on the subject of political loans as taxable deductions will be included in future tax legislation.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., May 9 — It is open season now for the young executive hunt! Hundreds of company recruitment officers are in the chase, hopeful that they may bag "promising" college seniors for their companies. Two grave mistakes will make the hunt costly in the long run: (1) colleges will give the men with the highest grades the best recommendations; and (2) companies will fail to interview some of the best executive potentials because the men are "grade outcasts."

For years now many educators have promoted the notion that the same qualities which bring a man high grades in school also make for success on the job. Nothing could be further from the truth. One hundred and fifty years ago when the purpose of our colleges was primarily to educate for the learned professions, there may have been some direct relationship between grades and job successes. But college is a vastly different institution today from what it was then. Several research studies indicate that good grades have little or no bearing on a man's job success in business.

I am assuming, of course, that job success is measured by dollars and cents. I know that some teachers will challenge the monetary yardstick. If the financial yardstick is not an adequate measure, why is it that so many teachers have left the profession for jobs in industry? Or why do boards of high school teachers slave to earn their Masters' Degrees? Certainly, with inflation today, college students and their parents place an ever-increasing emphasis on the monetary value of a college education.

Grades and Job Success

For years now I have been an employer, and since 1919 and the founding of Babson Institute I have been seriously interested in education. My observation is that in the average college the ability to sit, read, comprehend, memorize and reply parrot-fashion to the professor will insure good grades.

Do these particular abilities pay off in business? Not especially, except in the professions. Of course, if the college, in addition to developing scholastically competent individuals, has done something about character and personality development, then we have a different situation. But too many colleges give only lip-service in character education.

What Business Needs

I hope company recruitment officers won't let the schools and colleges over-emphasize the grade aspect of a job recommendation. What business needs most today are men with the character qualities of wisdom and honesty, a personal philosophy of self-reliance and the ability to act and get things done.

Employment experience has shown that some of these qualities are best developed outside the classroom—editing the school paper, managing a team, representing the student body in student government, being social chairman of a fraternity. The extra-curricular record also measures best drive and follow-through. Wisdom should have been developed in the classroom. The scholar is often wise but has poor judgment. The scholar sees people acting as he believes they ought to act. The successful businessman, however, sees people as they really are.

Importance of "Drive"

Practical application of good judgment can be measured in a man's personal conduct record, work record, campus participation, and in a variety of ways. A high degree of self-reliance and competitiveness as measured by hobbies, part-time jobs, and the kinds of extra-curricular activities in which one has participated are character traits absolutely essential to success in any free enterprise economy.

I want to know what kind of an economic philosophy the young graduate has picked up in college. The successful young executive must learn to drive himself and deprive himself—perhaps even his family—because he sees in the long run that it is for the good of all. The high turnover of young executives on their first jobs suggests that both college and company recruitment officers ought to pay more attention to some of the practical requirements for success in the professions, manufacturing, commerce, and even in farming.

BERLIN AIR CORRIDOR

After some seven years of "incidents" involving outrageous Russian behavior toward the citizens of free nations, what new expressions of indignation are left to us?

Now we have an apparently calculated attack by two Russian jets on an Air France passenger plane flying to Berlin. Three persons were wounded, one seriously, and only sheer luck prevented the French craft from crashing in flames.

You might be able to make excuse for the Russians if only one attacker was involved. That there were two, who made four passes altogether at the passenger ship, seems to take the matter out of the realm of innocent mistakes.

The Air France pilot firmly declares he was flying in the prescribed air corridor maintained by the western powers across Soviet Germany to Berlin.

The Russians have replied with one of their standard denials, saying the plane was outside the corridor and refused to land when directed to do so.

Considering the Russians' reputation for truthfulness, there is no reason to accept their version of the incident. But even if it were correct that the Air France plane had strayed beyond the corridor, isn't shooting it up a pretty drastic penalty for a navigational error?

A civilized nation, confronted with such a violation, would probably assume the first time that it was accidental. Officials might lodge a mild protest, with stiffer reminders following if more mistakes occurred.

Who but the Russians would turn to their guns the instant an error was detected?

What is really to be feared in this case, however, is not just that the Russians have shown again their essential bestiality. The danger is that this incident is the opener in a new series of terroristic acts designed to limit the value of the air corridor in the hope perhaps of promoting a new and more effective blockade of Berlin.

The Allied course is clear. We operate in the Berlin air corridor by right, not by sufferance of the Russians. If it becomes necessary to demonstrate the fact more bluntly, we can do it. We can supply fighter protection for our Berlin traffic.

Doubtless the Soviet Union will think twice before ordering its brave pilots to tangle with American flyers equipped to deal them the same kind of harsh handling the Reds gave the defenseless Air France passengers and crew.

Theer is no truth to the report that a sponsor wishes to stage a weekly atomic bomb explosion on television. Besides it could never compete for excitement with some of those old cowboy movies.

RIOTS IN JAPAN

While Japanese flags, honoring the return of Japan to independence, still hung in the streets of Tokyo, organized mobs of Communists staged riots and demonstrations against Americans. Nowhere are the thought processes of the Communists revealed more clearly than in Japan where Communists are an extremely small minority of the population.

The peace treaty granted to Japan was one of the most generous ever given a defeated nation. Under the terms of the original American operation the Japanese government was developed to the extent that its citizens were granted the greatest amount of individual liberty in the history of the country. Japan has been developed into a country which renounced war forever in its new constitution.

But peace and progress through democratic methods are displeasing to Communists. Social reforms evolved in a democratic fashion mean less chance of a violent revolution. Good will with the rest of the world cannot be tolerated by the Japanese Communists because respect for civilization, progress and freedom of individuals implies disrespect and opposition to Russia, the seat of international Communism.

Americans must not judge the sentiment of Japan by the May Day riots. The majority of Japanese wish to be friendly to the United States. But frustrating the will of the majority is a standard Red aim and if the demonstrations inspire distrust and misunderstanding of Japan in the United States the riots will have served their purpose.

A new small adding machine with only ten keys has been developed. It can add up to 99,999,999,999.99. That's better than most of us could do on our fingers.

Canada raised taxes on cigarettes and the revenue promptly declined. This demonstrates the law of diminishing returns. Can the U. S. take a hint?

HOLLYWOOD MEETS A CRISIS

For many years those who managed the motion picture industry took the position that they were not concerned with the politics of those engaged in the industry; that the only criterion of employment was talent. In 1947, this question became a national issue because of the appearance of "friendly" and "unfriendly" witnesses before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, some of the unfriendly ones going to prison for contempt. It became clear during those hearings that Communists had infiltrated the industry.

The motion picture companies met at the Waldorf-Astoria where decisions were made not to employ known Communists or those who took advantage of the Fifth Amendment to avoid admitting that they were Communists. This placed the industry in an awkward position legally.

On the other hand, voluntary groups of citizens, acting independently of each other, not only picketed theatres, but also, by word of mouth, denounced certain motion pictures and their personalities. There is no way of combatting such movements of the people, as no one can be forced to spend his money in a theatre.

The top management of the industry, faced by these facts, were compelled to meet this problem by practical measures. Obviously, the presence of Communists, pro-Communists, fellow-travelers and opportunists, who had made bad records for themselves, was encountering a sales resistance.

The industry organized to combat criticism, but most efforts failed because the records of the individuals criticized could only be voided by themselves and their own subsequent conduct.

Beginning last summer, a series of meetings between some motion picture producers and a few active anti-Communists resulted in a formula which is now being tried with a surprising measure of success. This formula may be stated as follows:

1. As long as such organizations of the people as the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterans, etc., take a definite position on the employment of Communists, pro-Communists, etc., in the motion picture industry, a picture in which they appear is defective and bad business;

2. No person can clear another of the taint of being favorably disposed to our national enemy, Soviet Russia. Only the person himself, who made the record, can unmake it, by a frank statement of the facts of the relationship;

3. It is not necessary for such a person to hire anyone to clear him; all that needs to be done is for him to look at his already reported record and to write a letter to his employer stating the facts as he knows or believes them to be;

4. Such letters are circulated, at first confidentially, and after criticism for the record, among those most active in their opposition to the employment of Communists in motion pictures.

This formula has encountered less resistance than had been anticipated. First tried out by Columbia, it is now in full force at Twentieth Century-Fox and M. G. M. Warner Brothers, R. K. O., and Republic have programs of their own which have been effective.

The simple method of self-confession is more realistic and to the point for so large a number of persons, many of whom have truthful explanations for their acts; some are obviously innocent of bad intent.

The enthusiastic and active cooperation of top management was not anticipated. Thus far, each of the companies adopting the program had used its own methods. The task is not easy because often involved are contractual relations, prospective lawsuits to which the Communists always resort, and loss of revenue on pictures already made. Nevertheless, the program of meeting these problems continues in a day-by-day fashion. There is no reason why any motion picture, radio or television company, any more than any other American enterprise, should employ a known Communist.

That Body of Yours

DESCRIPTION OF A HEART STROKE

When a middle-aged person experiences a severe pain behind the breast bone that seems to last longer than previous pains of the same sort, it is a wise precaution to call in the family physician. The pain may be caused by gas pressure from the stomach immediately below the heart, or by gas pressure from the large bowel (colon), which crosses the upper abdomen from right to left a few inches below the heart exerting pressure on the diaphragm and thence on the heart.

However, an agonizing vise-like pressure beneath the breast bone, if accompanied by other symptoms, should be considered a heart seizure—coronary thrombosis—and treated accordingly.

In his book "The Patient Past Fifty," Dr. Ernst P. Boss, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York city, in describing a heart stroke states: "The patient is seized with an agonizing constricting pain beneath sternum (breast bone) and feels as though the chest were being compressed by a heavy weight. The pain may radiate or extend down one or both arms or up to the neck. He becomes tremendously apprehensive and breaks out in a cold sweat. Symptoms of shock appear. The blood pressure drops, the pulse becomes feeble and thready. Some die in acute attack but in most cases there is slow recovery from the shock, particularly after morphine has been administered. In some the pain subsides in the course of an hour; in others it may persist, gradually growing less, for 24 hours."

With recovery from shock, the patient feels fairly well but very weak from the terrible experience he has been through. After the attack of pain grows less and disappears the patient feels well, the heart sounds are good and the blood pressure comes back to its former level. However, damage has been done to the heart and the temperature rises to meet or overcome this danger, rising from 101° as high as 104°, gradually coming down during the next few days. The white corpuscles of the blood increase greatly in number.

"In some cases evidence of damage to the heart shows itself by shortness of breath and possibly an accumulation of water (edema) in lower part of the chest," Dr. Boss writes.

The characteristics of a typical heart stroke (coronary thrombosis) should be known to us all. The immediate treatment is complete rest in bed till the physician arrives.

Unfair, He Says

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — General Eisenhower has decided not to follow the precedent of Wendell Willkie toward the oil barons of Texas, including fabulously wealthy Roy Cullen.

When Willkie toured Texas during his 1940 presidential campaign, he was warned in advance to be especially nice to Cullen. The big oilman, Willkie was advised, was good for heavy campaign contributions.

However, Willkie, either forgetting or ignoring this advice, shook hands with Cullen rather casually when he got to Dallas, did not single him out for special attention. Later, when told that he had slighted the big oilman, Willkie observed:

"You know, the good Lord put all this oil in the ground, then someone comes along who hasn't been a success at doing anything else, and takes it out of the ground.

"The minute he does that," observed Willkie, "he considers himself an expert on everything from politics to petticoats."

Ike Reverses Willkie

Friends of politically green Ike Eisenhower are seeing to it that he doesn't make the same faux pas. That's why the hands of Texas oilmen Roy Cullen and Sid Richardson are seen in the letter Ike has written to Jack Porter of Houston putting himself on record in favor of the oilmen in regard to Tidelands Oil.

The fact that Eisenhower, after refusing to take a position on any other domestic question, and after letting it be known he would make almost no speeches before the Chicago convention in July, finally takes a position on Tidelands Oil, is no accident.

It was arranged first by Sid Richardson, who took a special trip to Paris for the purpose. Second, it was calculated to win the support of Roy Cullen. For Jack Porter, to whom Ike wrote the letter, long has been Cullen's henchman and political messenger. Cullen has sent Porter to Washington from time to time to keep an eye on the 27½ per cent oil-depletion tax allowance which sets oilmen apart from others so favorably when it comes to figuring out their income taxes.

Porter also dumped $5,000 into the Joe McCarthy campaign to defeat Senator Tydings in Maryland, who was a strong supporter of Ike's policies, while McCarthy has been a bitter opponent of Ike's. Five thousand dollars is a lot of money for a Texan to send all the way to Maryland, and a lot of people are wondering why; and whether some of it might have come from Cullen.

Porter also is close to ex-Speaker Joe Martin, a potent backer of General MacArthur, and no friend of Eisenhower's. Porter even tells friends that he had $50,000 available from Cullen to help Martin during the 1948 convention in case of a deadlock and a chance to nominate Joe.

These are some of the things that Eisenhower undoubtedly didn't know when he wrote the Tidelands "Dear Jack" letter to Jack Porter.

"A Little Knowledge"

Eisenhower did know, however, something about the battle between two Texas politicians — Porter and Henry Zweifel—to become Republican national committeemen. For, in the fall of 1950, he remarked to GOP friends that if Porter were made GOP national committeeman from Texas, he, Ike, would get the Texas delegation in 1952. Ike even said that he was going to talk to Helen Reid, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune and a potent force in GOP politics, about speaking to Guy Gabrielson in order to help get Porter the job.

In the end, Porter was defeated. Zweifel got the committee post.

Undoubtedly it was to strengthen Porter's hand in Texas that the "Dear Jack" letter, taking a position on Tidelands Oil, was sent him. However, that letter is being scrutinized by politicians from coast to coast, as an indication of how the general will handle local leaders if and when he finally takes off the uniform.

Judging from the "Dear Jack" letter, their conclusion is that a little political knowledge is a dangerous thing.

Dodging Dictator

The dictator of Nicaragua, Anastasio Somoza, went through some strange gymnastics while in Washington on his uninvited "official" visit. President Somoza was en route from Nicaragua to the Leahy clinic in Boston and had sent word to the White House that he wouldn't think of passing through the U.S.A. without paying his respects to the man who, as senator from Missouri, once visited him while investigating the Pan American highway during the war.

So the White House, though loath to receive a dictator, nevertheless gave the Nicaraguan president a luncheon.

During the rest of his visit, General Somoza was mercurial to say the least. First he called a press conference. But, when the press arrived, he refused to come downstairs. The president, it was explained, was ill. Next day, however, the president of Nicaragua was not too ill to attend a baseball game and threw out the ball to the Washington Senators. He even caught a foul ball himself. Later that day he attended a big cocktail party.

Next important item on his schedule of entertainment was a special meeting of the organization of the American Republics, followed by a full-dress luncheon at the Pan American Union.

However, some Latin-American ambassadors, not anxious to pay tribute to a dictator declined. They were diplomatically "absent" or diplomatically "ill."

Perhaps General Somoza heard about this. At any rate, at 11 a. m., just before the meeting of the American Republics, Somoza called the whole thing off. He was too ill to attend, it was explained. Whereupon some of the diplomats who had been "out of town" or "ill" mysteriously found themselves back in town.

The ambassador of Honduras, for instance, was "out of town" at 11 a. m., but was seen in town at 11:30, just 30 minutes after he heard that the meeting in honor of Somoza was called off.

Curious Angle of 'Loopholes' Might Be Stickler for Democrats in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 9—Just a few weeks ago some of the Democratic senators were talking about the necessity of closing the "loopholes" in the tax laws. It will be interesting to see how solicitous the Senate and House will be about "loopholes" now that Senator Williams of Delaware has revealed the curious method by which campaign contributors to the New York State Democratic Committee were able to get a tax deduction for what apparently was a political contribution.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act, in barring political contributions by corporations, puts a "loan" in the same category as a contribution. In the cases exposed by Senator Williams, individuals made loans to the New York State Democratic Committee and then claimed that the loans could be repaid in full and hence the unpaid balances were deductible as losses, or bad debts, for income-tax purposes.

There is no law against an individual making a loan—or, for that matter, a contribution—to a political committee. But the question of whether such a contribution is a legitimate business expense for the individual is one that has many novel aspects.

Thus, it is true that many individuals who are engaged in business make campaign contributions with the expectation that they will receive government favors if the political party that they support, or the individual candidate that they help, wins the election. If their favorite candidate is defeated, it is obviously a risk, and the treasury, when confronted with losses due to speculation, does not make any distinction between ventures engaged in with a hope of profit and those which are engaged in as a result of poor judgment.

But the real question is whether a loan made to a political committee can be regarded as an investment or even as a business expense on the part of an individual. Certainly it is something new to have the Bureau of Internal Revenue declare that loans made to a Democratic political committee could not have been paid off and that hence losses could be deducted on the portion of the loan which was not reimbursed. The State Democratic Committee is a continuing body. The loans in question, which were made several years prior to the time when a ruling was first asked of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in 1948, apparently were not paid because the State Democratic Committee claimed that it did not have the money to reimburse the lenders. But it probably did raise money in subsequent campaigns through later contributions.

Every political committee goes in the hole during a campaign and usually makes up the deficit after election. Political committees of the losing party have a harder time collecting contributions after election day than those which are victorious at the polls. But because political committees exist from campaign to campaign and have a certain power to raise money at all times, it is rather surprising that the Treasury Department took the position that, because the loans had not been repaid, they never could be repaid.

The U. S. deputy commissioner of internal revenue took the view that the New York State Democratic Committee "has no assets of any consequence" and that "throwing the committee into bankruptcy would have accomplished nothing towards the payment of the obligations."

This rule is often invoked in business transactions and the courts have ruled that a bad-debt deduction can be claimed in the year in which there is a fixed event or some circumstance that determines definitely that the debt cannot be collected. But the question really does not turn so much on whether a Democratic state committee is analogous to a business. The problem is related solely to the question of whether, in the guise of a loan, a political contribution has been made. The issue is whether there was at any time a "loan transaction" or whether continuously there was an understanding that at least a part of the sums would be written off as unpaid loans.

The Treasury Department usually looks to the nature of the transaction in its rulings, and a loan to a political committee would, on its face, in most instances be regarded as a contribution, because political committees notoriously are unable to accumulate assets or to give security to the lenders.

It seems probable that legislation on the subject of political loans as taxable deductions will be included in future tax legislation.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., May 9 — It is open season now for the young executive hunt! Hundreds of company recruitment officers are in the chase, hopeful that they may bag "promising" college seniors for their companies. Two grave mistakes will make the hunt costly in the long run: (1) colleges will give the men with the highest grades the best recommendations; and (2) companies will fail to interview some of the best executive potentials because the men are "grade outcasts."

For years now many educators have promoted the notion that the same qualities which bring a man high grades in school also make for success on the job. Nothing could be further from the truth. One hundred and fifty years ago when the purpose of our colleges was primarily to educate for the learned professions, there may have been some direct relationship between grades and job successes. But college is a vastly different institution today from what it was then. Several research studies indicate that good grades have little or no bearing on a man's job success in business.

I am assuming, of course, that job success is measured by dollars and cents. I know that some teachers will challenge the monetary yardstick. If the financial yardstick is not an adequate measure, why is it that so many teachers have left the profession for jobs in industry? Or why do boards of high school teachers slave to earn their Masters' Degrees? Certainly, with inflation today, college students and their parents place an ever-increasing emphasis on the monetary value of a college education.

Grades and Job Success

For years now I have been an employer, and since 1919 and the founding of Babson Institute I have been seriously interested in education. My observation is that in the average college the ability to sit, read, comprehend, memorize and reply parrot-fashion to the professor will insure good grades.

Education Presents Challenge, Theme Of Teacher Parley

The underlying theme of the spring dinner meeting of the Kingston Teachers' Association was based upon the acceptance of education as a soul-stirring challenge to every educator in his effort to protect and continue the American way of life. The meeting took place Tuesday evening at Leherb's.

A spirit of congeniality and enthusiasm was evidenced as teachers and administrators assembled to play host to a large group of state and national officers. Marvin Craft, president of the local Teachers' Association, presiding as toastmaster, presented Arthur J. Laidlaw, supentendent of schools. Mr. Laidlaw extended a welcome to the members and guests assembled.

Educator's Role

Mrs. Bertha Carpenter, of Peekskill, president of the South-Eastern Zone, commended teachers and administrators for their cooperative efforts toward effective service within the Southeastern Zone. Mrs. Carpenter elaborated upon the place of the educator within the community and the ever-increasing demands upon the profession. She announced plans formulated for the annual Southeastern Zone fall conference to be held at Carnegie Hall and Manhattan Center, New York city, on Friday, Oct. 17. Noteworthy speakers for the one-day session will include Norman Cousins, editor of Saturday Review of Literature; Dr. Paul A. Witty of Northwestern University; and Dr. Harvey M. Rice, president of Buffalo State Teachers College and of the New York State Teachers' Association.

John G. Vett, Jr., of New Paltz, first vice president of the state association, as coordinator, spoke of interesting plans for group meetings and educational trips during the afternoon of the annual fall conference. Of particular note will be a newly organized session on Family Life with Dr. E. Osborn, of Columbia Teachers College, heading a panel of speakers, among who mwill be Dr. Eugene P. Link, chairman of the social science division of the New Paltz State Teachers College and an authority in the field of marriage and family relations.

Mrs. Frances Ciancanelli, of Beacon, corresponding secretary of the Zone, expressed personal gratitude for the service of the Kingston Teachers' Association.

Important Task

Clayton Seeber, of Poughkeepsie, present member of the Board of Directors of NYSTA and past president of the southeastern zone, paid a tribute to the loyalty and devotion of the officers within the local, state and national associations of our vast educational system.

"In the immense undertaking of operating local, state and national educational associations, every individual teacher has an important job to do," said Mr. Seeber. "Become better informed about every issue," he continued, "to minimize unjust criticism of the ones to whom the authority of leadership has been relegated."

Mr. Seeber traced briefly the history of the establishment of the national commission on teacher education and professional standards. The commission advocated the idea that qualified practitioners within a profession must determine and apply the professional standards that govern the selection, preparation, licensing, ethical conduct and professional service of those who enter their field of employment. This idea has long been accepted by the professions of medicine, dentistry, journalism and forestry but was revolutionary in the field of teaching.

Strong N.E.A.

Quoting from an address given by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, executive secretary of the National Commission before the NEA convention held in San Francisco during July 1951, Mr. Seeber said, "It is doubtful that the movement could now be overturned; its roots are deep and sturdy, and its branches wide and strong."

Raising the certification requirements of teachers, continued Mr. Seeber, produces a greater number of qualified candidates, leading to better salaries, greater security, and stronger public support. Above all else, he concluded, it brings better teaching and greater stability in teaching service.

Education Advancement

James A. Cullen, New York State Director of the NEA Association and representative of the legislation committee emphasized the advancement of education on every front. He urged full allegiance to the NEA and commended the local area for its strong support and cooperation.

Mr. Cullen pointed out the essential differences among the local, state, and national associations, outlining the advantages peculiar to each. He spoke of the importance of the NEA in its endeavors in research, public relations, teacher work-shops and conferences. Through NEA leadership in press and radio, an expensive public relations campaign was waged. Three hundred articles conveyed dynamically to the public the urgent needs of public school teachers. Foremost among these was an article entitled Teachers' Salaries a National Disgrace featured in Readers Digest. Thousands of news articles and radio announcements added to the effectiveness of the campaign, resultant in noticeable advancements added to the effectiveness of the campaign, resultant in noticeable advancement in communities everywhere.

Mr. Cullen spoke at length about state aid, taxes, and suggested recommendations by the NEA. Likening the three associations to links in a great chain, he urged every teacher to expend effort toward building a strong National Education Association.

Editorial Policies

Edith L. Garthe, of Albany, associate editor of New York State Education, published by the NYSTA, gave a clear-cut picture of the policies and related problems of the editorial staff. Miss Garthe brought out the need for advance contributions toward magazines issues. Pictures of teacher and pupil activities are urgently needed for illustrative purposes said Miss Garthe. Pictures forwarded to the editorial staff are filed and are exceptionally valuable as illustrations for feature articles submitted by individual teachers. Miss Garthe commended the local association for its prominence in the field of service toward the activities of the state association.

Oldest Association

Speaking of the existent harmony among the local, state and national associations, Clayton Rose, field representative of NYSTA, and director of public relations, paid tribute to the past leadership of a "great profession." He stated that the New York State Teachers' Association, organized in 1845, is the oldest association rendering continuous service in the world. Mr. Rose outlined the important legislative changes in the profession. He gave a detailed explanation of the legislative changes concerning teacher retirement within the state and urged all within the profession to avail themselves of the opportunity for earlier retirement benefits.

He enumerated the bills passed in the Legislature pertaining to the teaching profession, throughout which there has been a steady advancement. Mr. Rose also pointed out forces at work within the state to undermine educational advancement and influence public sentiment. "Through courage and the will to do," he said, "we, of the teaching profession, may broaden our horizons and become united in purpose and service."

During the evening's program, Mrs. Frieda L. Dingee, principal of School 7, and past zone president, introduced Mrs. Ilse Wolf, visiting exchange teacher from Frankfort, Germany. Mrs. Wolf arrived in September to spend a year studying the community life and the educational systems within the United States. She was assigned to this city the current month. She plans to participate in community life and to study extensively the schools and colleges within the local area.

Mary A. Kelly, a member of the local high school faculty, assisted Mr. Craft as general chairman of the dinner meeting.

Weekend Visitors Numerous to See Display of Blooms

Area apple blossoms and tulips will still be at their peak of beauty this weekend, because of the cool weather during the week, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, said today.

Kurdt added that he had heard many reports of an unusually large number of visitors in Kingston over the past weekend. Many of them showed a great deal of interest in the tulip displays and in the old stone houses and other places of historic interest.

"Judging from the constant inquiries being received from a wide area, we will have many thousands of extra visitors this summer, due mostly to the widespread publicity resulting from 300th anniversary and related activities," Kurdt said. "We confidently hope that considerable permanent expansion will result from the increased interest in Kingston."

Noting the effect of the cool weather in prolonging the apple blossom and tulip displays, Kurdt recalled the difficulties in past years of setting dates for the Apple Blossom Festivals in having them coincide with the peak blossom display. "It will always be difficult to set dates for such events as apple blossom or tulip festivals," he said, and all areas are confronted with the same problem, which arises from the changeable weather conditions.

Fluoridation Is Favored for Water In Catskill Area

Two members of the Ulster County Health Department attended a meeting in Catskill Tuesday night when a number of speakers recommended the fluoridation of the Catskill Water System.

The fluoridation of the Kingston water system and that in the town of Esopus have been under consideration but action was delayed some time ago pending further study.

At Highland, however, plans were reported today as progressing definitely toward fluoridation and a definite plan may be announced within the next two or three weeks.

The Catskill Daily Mail said "a panel of experts" at the Tuesday meeting were in favor of fluoridation there, and Raymond Plank, superintendent of the Catskill water department said necessary equipment for conversion would cost between $1,600 and $1,800 and would last for 20 years.

Among the speakers were Dr. Arthur Bushel, assistant dental director of the State Department of Health, Dr. George Englert, and Dr. Bernard D. Ersken, Catskill dentists, and Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson, Catskill physician.

The two from the Uister county department were Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation, and Morris Nussbaum, sanitary chemist.

It is unlikely that further consideration will be given fluoridation of the Kingston system until the position of water department superintendent is filled.

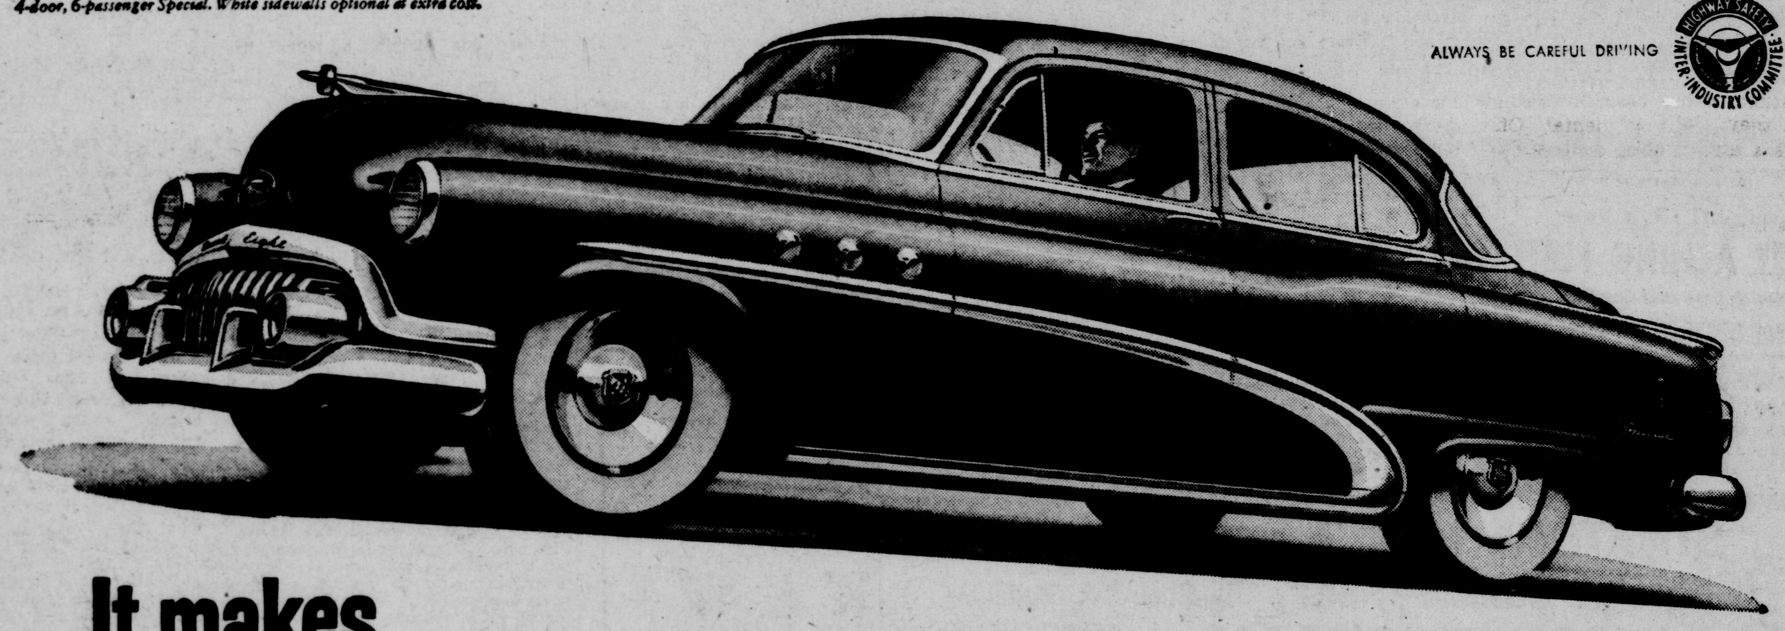
ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING — HIGHWAY SAFETY INTER-INDUSTRY COMMITTEE



It makes each drop of gas say uncle

ACCORDING to combustion experts, there's as much energy locked in a drop of gasoline as there is in a drop of nitroglycerine.

But the problem is to put that energy to work.

So Buick engineers aren't content just to mix that drop with air and touch it off. They've designed an engine that brings it catapulting into a cylinder head where it strikes a turbo-top piston—gets whipped into a churning, swirling ball of tight-packed energy.

Then it's fired. And when that happens, a drop of gasoline certainly lets loose power.

This isn't something that happens in a "car of the future."

It happens in a Buick Fireball 8 Engine today. It's a high-compression engine. It's a valve-in-head engine. But it's also a Fireball in performance as well as name.

And it puts extra power under the hood—and extra miles in the fuel back in the gas tank.

Now, power is great, but what goes with it?

Mister, that's something you ought to find out—and soon.

What goes with it is an automobile as sweet-handling, eager and willing as anything that ever made your pulse leap to a faster beat.

It's a car that seems to know what you want it to do—true and sure in its course on a straightaway—beautifully balanced on curves.

It's a car with Dynaflow Drive* to feed power with infinite smoothness—and a road-hugging levelness of ride that took a million in cold cash to perfect.

And it is, with all this, a very tidy bargain. Why not price it, drive it, know it for yourself? We'll be glad to arrange a demonstration.

Education Presents Challenge, Theme Of Teacher Parley

The underlying theme of the spring dinner meeting of the Kingston Teachers' Association was based upon the acceptance of education as a soul-stirring challenge to every educator in his effort to protect and continue the American way of life. The meeting took place Tuesday evening at Leherb's.

A spirit of congeniality and enthusiasm was evidenced as teachers and administrators assembled to play host to a large group of state and national officers. Marvin Craft, president of the local Teachers' Association, presiding as toastmaster, presented Arthur J. Laidlaw, supentendent of schools. Mr. Laidlaw extended a welcome to the members and guests assembled.

Educator's Role

Mrs. Bertha Carpenter, of Peekskill, president of the South-Eastern Zone, commended teachers and administrators for their cooperative efforts toward effective service within the Southeastern Zone. Mrs. Carpenter elaborated upon the place of the educator within the community and the ever-increasing demands upon the profession. She announced plans formulated for the annual Southeastern Zone fall conference to be held at Carnegie Hall and Manhattan Center, New York city, on Friday, Oct. 17. Noteworthy speakers for the one-day session will include Norman Cousins, editor of Saturday Review of Literature; Dr. Paul A. Witty of Northwestern University; and Dr. Harvey M. Rice, president of Buffalo State Teachers College and of the New York State Teachers' Association.

John G. Vett, Jr., of New Paltz, first vice president of the state association, as coordinator, spoke of interesting plans for group meetings and educational trips during the afternoon of the annual fall conference. Of particular note will be a newly organized session on Family Life with Dr. E. Osborn, of Columbia Teachers College, heading a panel of speakers, among who mwill be Dr. Eugene P. Link, chairman of the social science division of the New Paltz State Teachers College and an authority in the field of marriage and family relations.

Mrs. Frances Ciancanelli, of Beacon, corresponding secretary of the Zone, expressed personal gratitude for the service of the Kingston Teachers' Association.

Important Task

Clayton Seeber, of Poughkeepsie, present member of the Board of Directors of NYSTA and past president of the southeastern zone, paid a tribute to the loyalty and devotion of the officers within the local, state and national associations of our vast educational system.

"In the immense undertaking of operating local, state and national educational associations, every individual teacher has an important job to do," said Mr. Seeber. "Become better informed about every issue," he continued, "to minimize unjust criticism of the ones to whom the authority of leadership has been relegated."

Mr. Seeber traced briefly the history of the establishment of the national commission on teacher education and professional standards. The commission advocated the idea that qualified practitioners within a profession must determine and apply the professional standards that govern the selection, preparation, licensing, ethical conduct and professional service of those who enter their field of employment. This idea has long been accepted by the professions of medicine, dentistry, journalism and forestry but was revolutionary in the field of teaching.

Strong N.E.A.

Quoting from an address given by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, executive secretary of the National Commission before the NEA convention held in San Francisco during July 1951, Mr. Seeber said, "It is doubtful that the movement could now be overturned; its roots are deep and sturdy, and its branches wide and strong."

Raising the certification requirements of teachers, continued Mr. Seeber, produces a greater number of qualified candidates, leading to better salaries, greater security, and stronger public support. Above all else, he concluded, it brings better teaching and greater stability in teaching service.

Education Advancement

James A. Cullen, New York State Director of the NEA Association and representative of the legislation committee emphasized the advancement of education on every front. He urged full allegiance to the NEA and commended the local area for its strong support and cooperation.

Mr. Cullen pointed out the essential differences among the local, state, and national associations, outlining the advantages peculiar to each. He spoke of the importance of the NEA in its endeavors in research, public relations, teacher work-shops and conferences. Mr. Cullen spoke at length about state aid, taxes, and suggested recommendations by the NEA. Likening the three associations to links in a great chain, he urged every teacher to expend effort toward building a strong National Education Association.

Editorial Policies

Edith L. Garthe, of Albany, associate editor of New York State Education, published by the NYSTA, gave a clear-cut picture of the policies and related problems of the editorial staff. Miss Garthe brought out the need for advance contributions toward magazines issues. Pictures of teacher and pupil activities are urgently needed for illustrative purposes said Miss Garthe. Pictures forwarded to the editorial staff are filed and are exceptionally valuable as illustrations for feature articles submitted by individual teachers. ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING — HIGHWAY SAFETY INTER-INDUSTRY COMMITTEE

It makes each drop of gas say uncle

ACCORDING to combustion experts, there's as much energy locked in a drop of gasoline as there is in a drop of nitroglycerine.

But the problem is to put that energy to work.

So Buick engineers aren't content just to mix that drop with air and touch it off. They've designed an engine that brings it catapulting into a cylinder head where it strikes a turbo-top piston—gets whipped into a churning, swirling ball of tight-packed energy.

Then it's fired. And when that happens, a drop of gasoline certainly lets loose power.

This isn't something that happens in a "car of the future."

It happens in a Buick Fireball 8 Engine today. It's a high-compression engine. It's a valve-in-head engine. But it's also a Fireball in performance as well as name.

And it puts extra power under the hood—and extra miles in the fuel back in the gas tank.

Now, power is great, but what goes with it?

Mister, that's something you ought to find out—and soon.

What goes with it is an automobile as sweet-handling, eager and willing as anything that ever made your pulse leap to a faster beat.

It's a car that seems to know what you want it to do—true and sure in its course on a straightaway—beautifully balanced on curves.

It's a car with Dynaflow Drive* to feed power with infinite smoothness—and a road-hugging levelness of ride that took a million in cold cash to perfect.

And it is, with all this, a very tidy bargain. Why not price it, drive it, know it for yourself? We'll be glad to arrange a demonstration.

Woodstock Artist Makes Search for Old Haitian Home

Woodstock, May 8—There is a long stretch of distance and time between a small girl delving into an old trunk in the attic of her grandmother's Vermont homestead, not too many years ago, and a cotton plantation in Haiti during the reign of King Louis XVI of France.

The small girl is now Mrs. Zulma Parker, one of Woodstock's outstanding artists, who late this winter completed a four-year search for the Haitian plantation of her great-grandfather, John Jacques Thomas. It was the document, dated 1790, in her grandmother's attic trunk which provided the inspiration for her pilgrimage.

The document, according to authorities to whom she has shown it, is unusual not only that it bears the signature of Louis XVI, granting Thomas the privileges of a French gentleman, but because of the circumstances behind it. Although his parents came from La Rochelle, France, Thomas was born in London. Since France was seething with pre-Revolutionary ferment, he chose to journey to the French colony of Haiti rather than return to France, and hence was given the document.

Sails for Haiti

Mrs. Parker's desire to find the property in Haiti where her ancestors settled, was intensified by an exquisite pair of oval miniatures of John Jacques Thomas and his wife, Susan DeLezay, whom he met and married in Haiti in 1786. The miniatures had stood, protected by tiny folding doors, on the marble mantle of the Vermont farm. Fascinated by the tiny delicate portraits, her search began in Paris, at the library of the Ministry of Overseas and the Colonies, where she discovered the record of her great-grandparents' marriage in Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

Four years ago Mrs. Parker sailed for Haiti to seek the location of the family property. Beginning at the Archives at Port-au-Prince, the trail wound through countless governmental offices. With her she took photostatic copies of the document and old letters and records, which immediately aroused the interest of officials who willingly gave their assistance in tracing clues.

Follows Slim Clues

It was not until her return last year after her third winter visit to Haiti, that a letter was forwarded from Port-au-Prince. It contained information concerning the "Right of claim of Zulma Thomas" to a certain property. Zulma was one of John Jacques Thomas's four children, born in Haiti. The family had removed to Charleston, S. C., where the miniatures were painted. When Zulma was only six, her parents died. When she was grown she went to Vermont to marry William Ripley. Mrs. Parker's mother was the child of the French Zulma.

Mrs. Parker was handicapped at the beginning of her search since she had no idea of the kind of property she was looking for, but she learned from a communication from Paris that it was a "cotton and indigo plantation." She discovered also that it came under the jurisdiction of San Marc, a city some distance north of Port-au-Prince, located in the Petite Riviere area of the Arto Bonite river, where a large dam project is now in progress. Once a rich, luscious plantation area, the land has become badly eroded and the irrigation project, she learned, has been started to restore it.

Search is Narrowed

Through an enthusiastic young Negro engineer who was engaged in work on the project, the search was narrowed to a rural area, the large and ancient Boulin plantation, of which the Thomas plantation had been a part.

The journey, beginning with a four-hour train trip from Port-au-Prince to the area, was climaxed by the meeting with an editor of a book on Haitian poetry, who was employed in the census bureau. He told her how to break down the greatly populated area, and with the aid of maps showed her how to locate the old roads. These guided her to the Boulin settlement where there are now between 700 and 800 "squatters." When she arrived in the area she was astounded to find that the people there knew all about her. She was taken by the engineer who had surveyed the land into the area in a chauffeur driven truck.

Finds Gate Posts

"We drove through incredible dust," Mrs. Parker said "and finally came to a place in the road where the young Haitian engineer told me we would have to walk." Scrambling through a cactus hedge, she was conscious of people watching from all sides. She asked the engineer whether the people knew of any old foundations. He told her that the natives were "very cautious here, and might fear the loss of the property once owned by your great grandparents."

"I told him to assure them that my interest was only a romantic one. Through successive governmental turmoils, the property was long ago lost. It was known that there was great fighting in the area."

She believes that since John Jacques Thomas was a 33rd degree Mason, he was probably sympathetic to the desire of the Haitians for freedom. The only trace she found that might have been the entrance to his home was a pair of masonry gate posts.

Natives Are Curious

By this time a "flock of watchers" was observing their investigations, and she was finally sent to see an old woman more than 100 years old, who unfortunately could give her no information. A few days later, however, she talked to the proprietor of the local hotel, who invited her to visit his farm. She was driven by chauffeured jeep across a wide trackless cotton field. Soon they came upon a large foundation with a fairly high wall and the remnants of doors and windows. It was a "sort of little patio with six small native huts grouped inside." Her engineer friend located another old map showing that property, which proved not to be that of the Boulin plantation, but she judged from the well-marked Boulin property also shown, that the dwellings might have been similar.

"I had rather cherished a dream," Mrs. Parker laughed, "that I might have a winter home on a piece of the old plantation, if it could be obtained. Today, however, lush as it may have been in my ancestors' time, it is not appealing."

The rewards of the search, nevertheless, are tangible—a host of friends, and a wealth of experiences. Some were encountered pursuing countless false leads, and frustrating though they may have been at the time, in the end enriched her journeys.

Mission Completed

She cherishes most perhaps a statement made by a fine young native when she was showing him a copy of the Thomas marriage contract, at the census bureau. It listed gifts, one of which was from the bride's brother for a sum of $20,000, or the same amount's worth of slaves on the next ship to arrive in port. Mrs. Parker admitted to being embarrassed when the young Negro read it. She told him she was from the north of the United States and "this hurts me."

"But everyone had slaves then," he replied, "and we freed our slaves 60 years before your country did."

Mrs. Parker returned to Woodstock a few weeks ago not only with a mission successfully completed but a number of new paintings of Haiti. She began her studies here with the noted Birge Harrison, but put her brushes away to go overseas with the Red Cross during World War 1. Five years later she returned to Paris to study with Andre L'Hote. Last year she had a one-man show of her paintings at Parnassus Square.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

It's Good Bridge Knowing Safe Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Today's hand was played in the final round of a pair tournament," writes a Miami correspondent. "West opened the four of diamonds, and declarer decided to finesse. He played the queen of diamonds from dummy and dropped the nine from his hand.

"East was not deceived by this falsecard. He won the first trick with the king of diamonds and returned the suit for his partner to ruff. This set the slam contract.

"South said that he knew he was taking a risk when he finessed. In a total poker game he would have put up the ace of diamonds and would have ruffed out his spades. At the end he would give up one diamond trick.

"South added that West was an artful player who was fully capable of underleading the king of diamonds to give him a guess and a problem at trick one. South didn't want to make only 12 tricks if everybody else was going to make 13 tricks.

"How good is this reasoning? Would you say that South was theoretically correct, but unlucky? Or would you say that South had a very close decision to make? Or would you say that South was wrong and just got what was coming to him?"

I think South was wrong, but I also think he was slightly unlucky. Every tournament player bears the scars of just such hands, so I sympathize with the poor fellow.

For the benefit of non-tournament players, let me make it clear. There is no problem at rubber bridge. You go up with the ace of diamonds, take the ace of spades, ruff a spade, get back with the ace of clubs, ruff another spade, and so on. You ruff out all the spades, draw trumps, and eventually give up one diamond.

In a match-point tournament, you don't want to make 12 tricks if everybody else has bid the small slam and is going to make 13 tricks. In that case you will get no points even though you make your small slam contract.

South should expect a good score if he merely makes his slam, regardless of the extra trick. The general principle is that you play safe for your contract when you're in a very good spot. It isn't necessary to play every hand wide open.

Woodstock Artist Makes Search for Old Haitian Home

Woodstock, May 8—There is a long stretch of distance and time between a small girl delving into an old trunk in the attic of her grandmother's Vermont homestead, not too many years ago, and a cotton plantation in Haiti during the reign of King Louis XVI of France.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

It's Good Bridge Knowing Safe Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Today's hand was played in the final round of a pair tournament," writes a Miami correspondent. "West opened the four of diamonds, and declarer decided to finesse. He played the queen of diamonds from dummy and dropped the nine from his hand.

"East was not deceived by this falsecard. He won the first trick with the king of diamonds and returned the suit for his partner to ruff. This set the slam contract.

"South said that he knew he was taking a risk when he finessed. In a total poker game he would have put up the ace of diamonds and would have ruffed out his spades. At the end he would give up one diamond trick.

"South added that West was an artful player who was fully capable of underleading the king of diamonds to give him a guess and a problem at trick one. South didn't want to make only 12 tricks if everybody else was going to make 13 tricks.

"How good is this reasoning? Would you say that South was theoretically correct, but unlucky? Or would you say that South had a very close decision to make? Or would you say that South was wrong and just got what was coming to him?"

I think South was wrong, but I also think he was slightly unlucky. Every tournament player bears the scars of just such hands, so I sympathize with the poor fellow.

For the benefit of non-tournament players, let me make it clear. There is no problem at rubber bridge. You go up with the ace of diamonds, take the ace of spades, ruff a spade, get back with the ace of clubs, ruff another spade, and so on. You ruff out all the spades, draw trumps, and eventually give up one diamond.

In a match-point tournament, you don't want to make 12 tricks if everybody else has bid the small slam and is going to make 13 tricks. In that case you will get no points even though you make your small slam contract.

South should expect a good score if he merely makes his slam, regardless of the extra trick. The general principle is that you play safe for your contract when you're in a very good spot. It isn't necessary to play every hand wide open.

Damage Action Is Discontinued Here By Stipulation

An action brought by Northeastern Woodworking Co., Inc., of Ellenville against Roy-New York Co., Inc., for goods sold and delivered was discontinued by stipulation in Supreme Court Thursday after the defendant had rested its case following an attempt to prove an action for damages under six counter claims against the plaintiff.

Plaintiff alleged it has entered into contracts with defendant to manufacture and deliver doors and door casings, payment to be made on delivery. Payments were not made for all materials sold and the defendant claimed some of the doors supplied by the Ellenville firm did not meet specifications. Counter claims were filed when Northeastern Woodworking Co., Inc., brought an action to recover for balance due on contracts. The defendant company also alleged that the plaintiff had dealt directly with its customers after ascertaining the names of the customers.

At the conclusion of the testimony on the counter claims of the defendant company, LeRoy Lounsberry, attorney for plaintiffs, moved for dismissal of the counter claims on the grounds of lack of proof.

One of the contentions was that no demand had ever been made upon the plaintiffs by the New York concern until after the plaintiff, Northeastern Woodworking, had begun its action to recover a balance of some $1,600 due on the contracts.

Morris Hutter, attorney of record for the defendants, was a member of the Roy-New York Company, Inc., and testified to transactions with the Ellenville firm. He admitted, on questioning by Justice Bookstein, that no formal demand specifying any amount of damage had ever been made on the plaintiff until after the plaintiff had brought an action to recover the balance on the goods sold and delivered. He testified the Ellenville firm had been notified of inferior doors being delivered but no specific demand for damages had been made.

His firm had agreed to try to sell the inferior doors, he said, at a price less than the contract price.

Following the testimony of defendant company in relation to counter claims, Justice Bookstein, presiding justice, recessed the court and asked counsel to meet his in chambers. Following that conference the case was announced discontinued by stipulation.

The jury was discharged from further service on the case.

Cancer Institute Called Important For All Nurses

Emphasis was laid today by Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen on the importance of all nurses attending the cancer teaching institute May 20 and 27 at 7:30 p. m.

The sessions are scheduled for Myron J. Michael School auditorium with discussion by leaders in the medical profession on the various phases of cancer treatment.

Mrs. Van Wagenen, executive director of Ulster County Branch, New York State Division, American Cancer Society, said she felt all nurses in the area would be interested in attending the institute.

"It promises to be very informative," she stressed, "for school nurses, office nurses, student nurses and public health nurses."

Mrs. Van Wagenen expressed a welcome to nurses from Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Orange and Sullivan counties.

The program for May 20 will include Charles N. Breed, Jr., M.D., medical consultant from Memorial Hospital in New York city, New Treatments in the Care of Cancer Patients. Miss Mary Keating and Miss Ida Zanni, on the teaching staff of Benedictine Hospital, will give nursing care demonstrations.

The May 27 meeting will feature Vincent H. Handy, M.D., associate director of the Bureau of Cancer Control, Public Health Aspects in Cancer Control; Milton Grover, M.D., director and radiologist of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic, The Cancer Program in Ulster County; and Esther Flemming, consultant nurse, mental hygiene, Emotional Aspects in the Care of Cancer Patients.

Settlement Is Reached

Rockford, Ill., May 9 (AP)—A six weeks strike of AFL printers which halted publication of Rockford's two daily newspapers for the last two weeks was settled last night. Plans were made to resume publication today. Agreement on a new contract—the chief issue in the printers' walkout—was between the AFL International Typographical Union and the Rockford Consolidated Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Morning Star and the afternoon Register-Republic. The publishing company also reached agreement with the CIO American Newspaper Guild, which was not involved in the ITU dispute.

The name of Miss Ingrid Ilgner was inadvertently omitted from the 90 per cent honor roll listing as prepared by school officials, it was announced this morning by a spokesman at Kingston High School.

Damage Action Is Discontinued Here By Stipulation

An action brought by Northeastern Woodworking Co., Inc., of Ellenville against Roy-New York Co., Inc., for goods sold and delivered was discontinued by stipulation in Supreme Court Thursday after the defendant had rested its case following an attempt to prove an action for damages under six counter claims against the plaintiff.

Plaintiff alleged it has entered into contracts with defendant to manufacture and deliver doors and door casings, payment to be made on delivery. Payments were not made for all materials sold and the defendant claimed some of the doors supplied by the Ellenville firm did not meet specifications. Counter claims were filed when Northeastern Woodworking Co., Inc., brought an action to recover for balance due on contracts. The defendant company also alleged that the plaintiff had dealt directly with its customers after ascertaining the names of the customers.

At the conclusion of the testimony on the counter claims of the defendant company, LeRoy Lounsberry, attorney for plaintiffs, moved for dismissal of the counter claims on the grounds of lack of proof.

One of the contentions was that no demand had ever been made upon the plaintiffs by the New York concern until after the plaintiff, Northeastern Woodworking, had begun its action to recover a balance of some $1,600 due on the contracts.

Morris Hutter, attorney of record for the defendants, was a member of the Roy-New York Company, Inc., and testified to transactions with the Ellenville firm. He admitted, on questioning by Justice Bookstein, that no formal demand specifying any amount of damage had ever been made on the plaintiff until after the plaintiff had brought an action to recover the balance on the goods sold and delivered. He testified the Ellenville firm had been notified of inferior doors being delivered but no specific demand for damages had been made.

His firm had agreed to try to sell the inferior doors, he said, at a price less than the contract price.

Following the testimony of defendant company in relation to counter claims, Justice Bookstein, presiding justice, recessed the court and asked counsel to meet his in chambers. Following that conference the case was announced discontinued by stipulation.

The jury was discharged from further service on the case.

Cancer Institute Called Important For All Nurses

Emphasis was laid today by Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen on the importance of all nurses attending the cancer teaching institute May 20 and 27 at 7:30 p. m.

The sessions are scheduled for Myron J. Michael School auditorium with discussion by leaders in the medical profession on the various phases of cancer treatment.

Mrs. Van Wagenen, executive director of Ulster County Branch, New York State Division, American Cancer Society, said she felt all nurses in the area would be interested in attending the institute.

"It promises to be very informative," she stressed, "for school nurses, office nurses, student nurses and public health nurses."

Mrs. Van Wagenen expressed a welcome to nurses from Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Orange and Sullivan counties.

The program for May 20 will include Charles N. Breed, Jr., M.D., medical consultant from Memorial Hospital in New York city, New Treatments in the Care of Cancer Patients. Miss Mary Keating and Miss Ida Zanni, on the teaching staff of Benedictine Hospital, will give nursing care demonstrations.

The May 27 meeting will feature Vincent H. Handy, M.D., associate director of the Bureau of Cancer Control, Public Health Aspects in Cancer Control; Milton Grover, M.D., director and radiologist of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic, The Cancer Program in Ulster County; and Esther Flemming, consultant nurse, mental hygiene, Emotional Aspects in the Care of Cancer Patients.

Kiwanians Visit New School; Boyd Explains Program

Members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club inspected the new George Washington elementary school on Thursday and had their weekly noon luncheon in the school's cafeteria.

Ambrose Boyd, principal, addressed the group, briefly outlining the objectives of the educational program and noting that "while we have a beautiful building unless we have a good program to go with it, it will be of no avail."

Stressing the trend toward learning by use, rather than by routine memorization, Principal Boyd told Kiwanians that one of the several aims of education is that "each child should learn democracy by participating in it." Supervision should be "dynamic, democratic and cooperative," he said.

Others who spoke were Chester A. Baltz, Sr., member of the Board of Education, and Clarence S. Rowland, board president. Rowland complimented Harry Halverson, architect, on the excellence of the plan of the new school, revealing that many favorable comments had been received from professional and lay visitors.

Next week's Kiwanis meeting will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel. On Monday evening, club members will visit the Monticello Kiwanis Club.

Approval Is Planned

Washington, May 9 (AP) — Congressional leaders today planned early approval of military pay increases ranging from three dollars a month for privates and seaman up to $65 for two-star generals and admirals. The long Senate-House deadlock over cost of living increases for 3½ million men and women in the armed forces and other uniformed services was broken late yesterday.

Results of School Meetings Held in Area During Week

Annual school meetings held this week in the area were reported to be generally quiet, a survey by The Freeman today disclosed.

The meetings of Ulster School District No. 8 elected officials but adjourned action on its budget until the last week in August. It was explained that the budget could not be adopted until the Kingston Board of Education released its annual figures, probably sometime in July. Some criticism of the Kingston Board for not releasing the figures earlier was expressed by some of the 40 persons attending the meeting.

James M. Krom was elected to the board of trustees in Ulster School District No. 8. Mrs. Rose P. Peters was elected collector and Mrs. Elizabeth D. Maxon, clerk.

The Maple Avenue School in Ellenville reported a "very quiet meeting," adopting a budget totaling approximately $393,000 for 1952-53. There were only 13 dissenting votes among the 150 cast, it was said.

Ben Cramer was elected to the board of trustees for a three-year term, Gordon Ayer for three years and Mrs. Harriet Breslow for a term of one year.

The Creek Locks School, with approximately 25 attending, adopted a budget of $14,326.20 and voted to install a new oil burner and a fluorescent lighting system in both of its classrooms.

Fred Sagar was elected to the Creek Locks board of trustees. Mrs. Raymond LeFever was elected collector and Raymond LeFever, clerk.

West Hurley School, District No. 5, with approximately 20 persons attending, voted a budget of $15,000. Clayton W. Vredenburg, Ulster county undersheriff, was elected trustee for one year. Clarence J. Ostrander was elected collector-treasurer, and Clarence Anderson, clerk.

The Tillson School adopted a budget of approximately $18,000, it was reported. William Dittell was elected to the board of trustees, replacing Alfred Lesca. Mrs. N. S. Phillips was elected clerk.

Port Ewen School District No. 13, with approximately 30 persons attending, voted a budget of $45,600. The meeting was reported to be "very quiet." It was voted to install a new oil burner, plus extra radiation, in the main building, and bids are being advertised.

John Spinnenweber was elected to the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board are Vincent Meleski and John Potter. Spinnenweber replaces Amasa Smith, who has just completed a term of six years. Wilson Tinnie was reelected clerk, Mrs. Edith Schryver, collector, and Clifford Finley, treasurer.

A budget of approximately $40,000 was adopted by the Hurley School District No. 4 at a meeting attended by approximately 250 people.

William Hutton was elected to the board of trustees, defeating William Gaffken, incumbent. Elbert Ackerman defeated Jay N. Vanderly to fill a vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Elliott Whitney. Other members of the board are William Petry, president, Joe Armater, Jack Gill, Harry Skerritt and Samuel Vaughn.

The board will appoint the collector, treasurer and clerk. Edward Browne served as chairman of the meeting.

Emma Wygant School, District No. 6, unanimously adopted a budget of approximately $19,000 and voted to rent a school bus to take children to and from their homes. This action has been under discussion for many years, it was said.

It was reported that the matter of centralization was also discussed and that feeling generally was strongly opposed.

Joseph Browne was reelected to the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board are Mrs. Thomas Parker and Thomas Carpino. Mrs. Ralph Nardi was elected collector-treasurer and Mrs. John Sorenson, cleark.

A number of schools will hold their annual meetings in July. Among these are Kerhonkson, New Paltz, the village of Saugerties, High Falls, Glasco, Stone Ridge, Highland, village of Rosendale and the Onteora Central School.

Jurors Are Selected

Bridgeport, Conn., May 9 (AP)—Nine jurors were selected yesterday in a Superior Court case here in which Henry R. Luce, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune magazines, and a Long Island man are being sued for $40,000. The plaintiffs claim that Luce is the owner of a station wagon which collided with a truck in which they were riding. Charles Russell, of Ridgefield, driver of the truck, seeks $30,000 and his father-in-law, Vincent Koniuta, also of Ridgefield, seeks $10,000 from Luce and Thomas F. Fagan, of Maspeth, N. Y. Russell and Koniuta claim Fagan, Luce's chauffeur, was teaching Catherine Ruane how to drive the station wagon in Ridgefield on Sept. 12, 1948.

Kiwanians Visit New School; Boyd Explains Program

Members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club inspected the new George Washington elementary school on Thursday and had their weekly noon luncheon in the school's cafeteria.

Ambrose Boyd, principal, addressed the group, briefly outlining the objectives of the educational program and noting that "while we have a beautiful building unless we have a good program to go with it, it will be of no avail."

Stressing the trend toward learning by use, rather than by routine memorization, Principal Boyd told Kiwanians that one of the several aims of education is that "each child should learn democracy by participating in it." Supervision should be "dynamic, democratic and cooperative," he said.

Others who spoke were Chester A. Baltz, Sr., member of the Board of Education, and Clarence S. Rowland, board president. Rowland complimented Harry Halverson, architect, on the excellence of the plan of the new school, revealing that many favorable comments had been received from professional and lay visitors.

Next week's Kiwanis meeting will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel. On Monday evening, club members will visit the Monticello Kiwanis Club.

Approval Is Planned

Washington, May 9 (AP) — Congressional leaders today planned early approval of military pay increases ranging from three dollars a month for privates and seaman up to $65 for two-star generals and admirals. The long Senate-House deadlock over cost of living increases for 3½ million men and women in the armed forces and other uniformed services was broken late yesterday.

Results of School Meetings Held in Area During Week

Annual school meetings held this week in the area were reported to be generally quiet, a survey by The Freeman today disclosed.

The meetings of Ulster School District No. 8 elected officials but adjourned action on its budget until the last week in August. It was explained that the budget could not be adopted until the Kingston Board of Education released its annual figures, probably sometime in July. Some criticism of the Kingston Board for not releasing the figures earlier was expressed by some of the 40 persons attending the meeting.

James M. Krom was elected to the board of trustees in Ulster School District No. 8. Mrs. Rose P. Peters was elected collector and Mrs. Elizabeth D. Maxon, clerk.

The Maple Avenue School in Ellenville reported a "very quiet meeting," adopting a budget totaling approximately $393,000 for 1952-53. There were only 13 dissenting votes among the 150 cast, it was said.

Ben Cramer was elected to the board of trustees for a three-year term, Gordon Ayer for three years and Mrs. Harriet Breslow for a term of one year.

The Creek Locks School, with approximately 25 attending, adopted a budget of $14,326.20 and voted to install a new oil burner and a fluorescent lighting system in both of its classrooms.

Fred Sagar was elected to the Creek Locks board of trustees. Mrs. Raymond LeFever was elected collector and Raymond LeFever, clerk.

West Hurley School, District No. 5, with approximately 20 persons attending, voted a budget of $15,000. Clayton W. Vredenburg, Ulster county undersheriff, was elected trustee for one year. Clarence J. Ostrander was elected collector-treasurer, and Clarence Anderson, clerk.

The Tillson School adopted a budget of approximately $18,000, it was reported. William Dittell was elected to the board of trustees, replacing Alfred Lesca. Mrs. N. S. Phillips was elected clerk.

Port Ewen School District No. 13, with approximately 30 persons attending, voted a budget of $45,600. The meeting was reported to be "very quiet." It was voted to install a new oil burner, plus extra radiation, in the main building, and bids are being advertised.

John Spinnenweber was elected to the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board are Vincent Meleski and John Potter. Spinnenweber replaces Amasa Smith, who has just completed a term of six years. Wilson Tinnie was reelected clerk, Mrs. Edith Schryver, collector, and Clifford Finley, treasurer.

A budget of approximately $40,000 was adopted by the Hurley School District No. 4 at a meeting attended by approximately 250 people.

William Hutton was elected to the board of trustees, defeating William Gaffken, incumbent. Elbert Ackerman defeated Jay N. Vanderly to fill a vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Elliott Whitney. Other members of the board are William Petry, president, Joe Armater, Jack Gill, Harry Skerritt and Samuel Vaughn.

The board will appoint the collector, treasurer and clerk. Edward Browne served as chairman of the meeting.

Emma Wygant School, District No. 6, unanimously adopted a budget of approximately $19,000 and voted to rent a school bus to take children to and from their homes. This action has been under discussion for many years, it was said.

It was reported that the matter of centralization was also discussed and that feeling generally was strongly opposed.

Joseph Browne was reelected to the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board of trustees for a three-year term. Also serving on the board are Mrs. Thomas Parker and Thomas Carpino. Mrs. Ralph Nardi was elected collector-treasurer and Mrs. John Sorenson, cleark.

A number of schools will hold their annual meetings in July. Among these are Kerhonkson, New Paltz, the village of Saugerties, High Falls, Glasco, Stone Ridge, Highland, village of Rosendale and the Onteora Central School.

Jurors Are Selected

Bridgeport, Conn., May 9 (AP)—Nine jurors were selected yesterday in a Superior Court case here in which Henry R. Luce, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune magazines, and a Long Island man are being sued for $40,000. The plaintiffs claim that Luce is the owner of a station wagon which collided with a truck in which they were riding. Charles Russell, of Ridgefield, driver of the truck, seeks $30,000 and his father-in-law, Vincent Koniuta, also of Ridgefield, seeks $10,000 from Luce and Thomas F. Fagan, of Maspeth, N. Y. Russell and Koniuta claim Fagan, Luce's chauffeur, was teaching Catherine Ruane how to drive the station wagon in Ridgefield on Sept. 12, 1948.

DOUBLE INVITATION BEST ANSWER

The aunt of a bride-to-be explains: "The wedding is to take place very soon. Her mother died when she was a baby and she has made her home with me ever since. Her father has remarried and lives in another city but will come to the wedding and give his daughter away. My problem is how to word the invitations. My brother thinks that they should go out in my name but I don't want to slight her father and stepmother as we all are on friendly terms. Would it be possible to include all three names on the invitations? (I am unmarried.)"

You can't properly include all three names on the invitations. But what you can do if you would like to is to have the invitations to the church go out in the names of the bride's father and stepmother, and the invitations to the reception in your name. These could with entire propriety go out in the same envelope and mailed in either his, or your, post office. Any press notices will announce that her father was present and gave her away, and that the reception was given by you, in your house.

Announcement of Degrees

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to graduate from college this coming June. However, I am planning on taking post-graduate work in order to obtain several other degrees. Would it be proper to send out announcements to my friends as each degree is received? I would like to let them know, but do not wish to appear boastful. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: I am sorry, but a series of announcements would be in very questionable taste. You could, at the end, send one card and announce the completed list.

Passing Plate for Second Helping

Dear Mrs. Post: When passing a plate at the table for a second serving, should the knife and fork be removed and held in the hand, or should both implements be left on the plate?

Answer: The knife and fork should be left with handles close together and well in toward the center of the plate so that there is no danger that they will topple off.

Is it bad taste to mash potatoes on the plate and mix them with gravy? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-16, "Table Rules of Importance," describes mixing, mashing and dunking. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

DOUBLE INVITATION BEST ANSWER

The aunt of a bride-to-be explains: "The wedding is to take place very soon. Her mother died when she was a baby and she has made her home with me ever since. Her father has remarried and lives in another city but will come to the wedding and give his daughter away. My problem is how to word the invitations. My brother thinks that they should go out in my name but I don't want to slight her father and stepmother as we all are on friendly terms. Would it be possible to include all three names on the invitations? (I am unmarried.)"

You can't properly include all three names on the invitations. But what you can do if you would like to is to have the invitations to the church go out in the names of the bride's father and stepmother, and the invitations to the reception in your name. These could with entire propriety go out in the same envelope and mailed in either his, or your, post office. Any press notices will announce that her father was present and gave her away, and that the reception was given by you, in your house.

Announcement of Degrees

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to graduate from college this coming June. However, I am planning on taking post-graduate work in order to obtain several other degrees. Would it be proper to send out announcements to my friends as each degree is received? I would like to let them know, but do not wish to appear boastful. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: I am sorry, but a series of announcements would be in very questionable taste. You could, at the end, send one card and announce the completed list.

Passing Plate for Second Helping

Dear Mrs. Post: When passing a plate at the table for a second serving, should the knife and fork be removed and held in the hand, or should both implements be left on the plate?

Answer: The knife and fork should be left with handles close together and well in toward the center of the plate so that there is no danger that they will topple off.

Is it bad taste to mash potatoes on the plate and mix them with gravy? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-16, "Table Rules of Importance," describes mixing, mashing and dunking. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

High School Nine Upsets Newburgh Academy, 3-1, Behind Telepas

Pitching Ace Checks Academy With Four Hits

Engle and Hinkley Hit Timely Singles

Leave it to Kingston High to spoil the best laid baseball plans of Newburgh Free Academy.

An underdog Maroon nine which didn't figure to do much against the DUSO championship nine yesterday at the municipal stadium, did plenty.

Behind George Telepas' brilliant four-hit pitching and timely hitting by Chuck Engle and Red Hinkley, the Maroons toppled the Goldbacks from the ranks of the unbeaten, 3-1, and projected themselves squarely into the DUSO pennant picture.

Telepas, a stout relief performer in two previous outings, held the powerful Goldbacks in tight check except for the third inning when Sam Leghorn and Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski clouted triples for the lone Newburgh tally.

Fans Seven Men

The Maroon right hander struck out seven, walked only two and collected one of Kingston's five hits off Early and Suto.

Bob Baumer's leadoff single led to a Kingston tally in the first inning. The shortstop stole second and scored on Engle's single. Hits by Baumer and Telepas figured in the second run which put Kingston ahead, 2-1, in the fifth inning.

The third run was the result of Bob Shelightner's walk, a hit batsman, Lou Perry, a fielder's choice that loaded the bases and a fly to the outfield. The relay apparently had Shelightner beaten at the plate but the throw sailed over the catcher's head.

Ed Van Loan's double was the only extra base knock for the Maroons. Burkowski, the Academy's all-round athletic genius, had half of the Newburgh hits with a single and triple.

Stars at Pimlico

Baltimore, May 9 (AP) — Five of racing's glamor gals are scheduled to face the starter at Pimlico Saturday for the $20,000-added Black-Eyed Susan Stakes, the fillies' counterpart of the Preakness. Topping the list as favorites is Calumet Farm's Real Delight, who won the Kentucky Oaks May 2 with Jockey Eddie Arcaro up. Arcaro will be riding the filly again Saturday. And he'll be around a week later to ride Hill Gail, Kentucky Derby winner, in the $75,000-added Preakness Stakes.

Giuliani Favored

New York May 9 (AP)—Sammy Giuliani of Stamford, Conn., will celebrate his 20th birthday tonight by fighting Johnny Williams of Montgomery, Ala., in the feature bout scheduled for 10 rounds at St. Nicholas Arena. Giuliani rates a 9-5 favorite in the middleweight scrap. It will be his first 10-rounder as fighters under 20 years old are not permitted to go that distance in New York.

School No. 2 Wins Basketball Championship

School No. 2 came up with another Grade School basketball champion this season to maintain a fast growing tradition. The school captured pennants in 1948, 1951 and this year. High School Golfers Still Undefeated

Kingston High School's undefeated golf squad hurdled its first major test with flying colors yesterday, when it humbled the crack Beacon High linksmen, 10½ to 1½ points in a thrilling duel on the Southern Dutchess links.

Beacon had blanked Middletown High and was regarded as the major threat to Maroon supremacy in the DUSO League. And yesterday the Dutchess swingers proved tough, if not invincible. There was a difference of only 14 strokes in the aggregate totals.

Strangely enough, Harvey Bostic, the Maroon's No. 1 ace, was high man for the day with an 85. The three other members of the squad — Charlie Bostic, Brian Smith and Harold Van Aken—each carded 82s. C. Bostic and Smith had low nines of 40.

Smith and Van Aken swept three points each. J. Mayer and B. Sublinski led Beacon with 85s, the former taking a half point from Harvey Bostic.

The boxscore:

Kingston High (10½)

Harvey Bostic	43	42	85	2½
Charlie Bostic	40	42	82	2
Brian Smith	40	42	82	3
Harold Van Aken	41	41	82	3
			331	10½

Beacon High (1½)

J. Mayer	44	41	85	½
D. Talbot	46	40	86	1
B. Sublinski	42	43	85	0
J. Adler	46	43	89	0

Average Daily Handle Way Up at Jamaica

Albany, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—"They're off" at Jamaica meant only the horses—not betting or attendance.

At the Jamaica spring meeting, wagering was up 16 per cent and attendance nine per cent higher than in 1951, the State Tax Department reported yesterday.

Betting at the 24-day meeting totaled $58,986,553, compared with $76,321,859 for the 36 days of spring racing last year.

The average daily handle rose from $2,120,052 last spring to $2,457,773 this year.

Daily attendance averaged 30,494 this year as against 28,074 last spring. This year 731,862 went to the track in the 24 days, compared with 1,010,662 for the 36 days last spring.

Hitzman, Yannone and Stan Bomba Set On First Arlington Speedway Program

Two of 1951's top stars—Bud Hitzman and Johnny Yannone—will be on hand for the opening program of stock car races Sunday at Arlington Speedway.

Hitzman, who hails from Verbank, has led several crack fields for some fast laps this season. Yannone, the Newburgh Flyer, with his now famous No. 80 red car, has been a leading money winner on Pennsylvania and New York tracks this season.

Stan Bomba, the points champion at Arlington last season, will launch defense of his title with a newer and faster car.

Other drivers slated to compete at the Van Wagner road oval are Duke Washburn, Pinky Disbrow, Bobby Thompson, "Wild Bill" Secor, Ted Seabiscuit, Dutch Freeman and a host of other headline drivers representing a cross section of New England's best.

Races are scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. and additional entertainment is planned.

Comets Discovered

Many new comets and a large number of new "baby comets" have been discovered already in the "sky survey" being conducted at the Palomar Observatory in California.

Steel production in the United States in 1950 was about 1,274 pounds for each person in the country.

Hudson Bowler Leads All-Events

A Hudson bowling veteran of 35-years experience and the Kingston doubles combination of John Frederick and Bill Mohr shared the spotlight in singles and doubles action of the state tournament last night.

The Hudson kegler — Ted Richardson — fired a 2066 all-events blast to wrest the lead from Jumpin' Joe Roberts of Poughkeepsie, who had been in front for several days with a 2063.

Richardson, who can account for the fact that his average has not risen above the 150-mark despite long years of travail on the polished lanes, racked up net scores of 606 in the team event, 620 in the doubles and 507 singles for a 1733 net. A 333-pin handicap boosted his gross total to 2066. He rolled in only one league.

1334 Local Doubles

Frederick and Mohr rolled the best gross doubles series by any Kingston bowlers to date and landed high in the standing board with a 1334 series.

Frederick fired a 615 net and 687 gross and Mohr posted 578 net and 647 gross.

Don McConnell's 617 net and 710 gross blast was the impetus for a 1264 series with B. Conlin who had 446 net and 554 gross.

Dominic Muscato of Canandaigua shot 696 to lead the singles department and four of his fellow townsmen were among the top five for the night. Best Kingston score reported was a 652 by Marty Kellenberger.

3104 Best Team Series

A high-powered Syracuse combine—the N. O. Zischang five—got off to a slow start on alleys 7 and 8 with 881 but rallied to stack scores of 959 and 1051 for a 2891 net and 3104 gross for the best team score.

Anchor Dom Scarsone shot 624, despite a 154 opener. He came back with 224 and 246. Three other members rolled over "600" gross.

Frank Kaminski furnished 677 gross to pace the Lublin's of Poughkeepsie to a 3094 gross. Atwood's BCA of Buffalo toppled 3034 and Ted Richardson's 717 sparked Glendale Hotel of Hudson to a 3039 gross. Howard Oilers of Walden shot 3021 behind Edward Thiele's 673 and Bill Hunter posted 670 in Sculley's Grill 3028 from Newburgh.

Two Newburgh squads featuring Cy's Diner aces failed to roll into the money.

Heavy weekend action starts tonight at both alleys and will continue until Sunday midnight.

Colleges Admit Losses to TV

New York, May 9 (AP) — Controlled television of college football will again be possible this fall under the National Collegiate Athletic Association program now being drafted.

It probably will be on a broader basis than 1951 even although the survey made by the NCAA television committee through the National Opinion Research Center showed that television does definite damage to college football attendance.

"This year's television will be spread among more colleges," said Bob Hall, Yale athletic director and chairman of the TV committee. "The colleges acted with the full knowledge they are hurting themselves."

Hall, who declared that college football supports the vast recreational and physical education programs of American schools, pointed to the elaborate TV survey based on last season which said:

"Colleges competing with televised football in 1951 reported a loss of one and a half million ticket sales compared to their 'expected' attendance based on the pre-television levels of 1947-48. In contrast, colleges with no TV competition boosted 1951 paid attendance by 318,000 over their 'expected' 1947-48 average.

"In relative terms this means a loss of over 15 per cent for the colleges competing against TV, compared to a gain of more than 6 per cent for the colleges without such competition—a 'TV differential' of 21 per cent."

Oliver Shoots Career Low

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 9 (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver shot the best tournament round of his 14-year professional golf career yesterday and he'd better keep on doing it to win the 72-hole Greenbrier Open.

The jolly golfer rolled out a near-record 61 in the first 18 holes on the old White Course.

But still stalking him is the great Sam Snead for whom this is home course. Snead is second by three strokes, and the way Sam's playing, Oliver can't afford to falter.

In two practice rounds before the tourney, Snead carded 63 and 64.

The 72-hole record for the 6,368 yard old White Course is 259 set by Ben Hogan in the Greenbrier two years ago. Snead set the 18-hole record of 60 the same year, although not in the tourney.

Olympic Trials

Chicago, May 9 (AP)—Trials to pick 10 bicyclists for the U. S. Olympic team will be held in two New Jersey cities, it was announced yesterday. Frank Small, Bayside, L. I., chairman of the Olympic cycling committee, said five will qualify at tryouts June 19-20 at Wall Stadium in Belmar. The other five will be picked in road race trials June 22 and 24 at Paterson over a 116-mile course.

High School Nine Upsets Newburgh Academy, 3-1, Behind Telepas

Engle and Hinkley Hit Timely Singles

Leave it to Kingston High to spoil the best laid baseball plans of Newburgh Free Academy.

Behind George Telepas' brilliant four-hit pitching and timely hitting by Chuck Engle and Red Hinkley, the Maroons toppled the Goldbacks from the ranks of the unbeaten, 3-1, and projected themselves squarely into the DUSO pennant picture.

Telepas, a stout relief performer in two previous outings, held the powerful Goldbacks in tight check except for the third inning when Sam Leghorn and Mickey "The Marvel" Burkowski clouted triples for the lone Newburgh tally.

Fans Seven Men

The Maroon right hander struck out seven, walked only two and collected one of Kingston's five hits off Early and Suto.

Bob Baumer's leadoff single led to a Kingston tally in the first inning. The shortstop stole second and scored on Engle's single. Hits by Baumer and Telepas figured in the second run which put Kingston ahead, 2-1, in the fifth inning.

The third run was the result of Bob Shelightner's walk, a hit batsman, Lou Perry, a fielder's choice that loaded the bases and a fly to the outfield. The relay apparently had Shelightner beaten at the plate but the throw sailed over the catcher's head.

Ed Van Loan's double was the only extra base knock for the Maroons. Burkowski, the Academy's all-round athletic genius, had half of the Newburgh hits with a single and triple.

Danny Boy Wins

Yonkers, N. Y., May 9 (AP) — Danny Boy Dalyum scored his second victory in four starts at Yonkers Raceway last night, taking the $3,660 Concourse Trot when Blitzen Up, who was leading, went into a break 10 feet from the wire. Driven by Dick Williams, the winner covered the mile in 2:07 and paid $7.60, $3.70 and $3.00. Blitzen Up took second and Virginia Flow finished third.

Stars at Pimlico

Baltimore, May 9 (AP) — Five of racing's glamor gals are scheduled to face the starter at Pimlico Saturday for the $20,000-added Black-Eyed Susan Stakes, the fillies' counterpart of the Preakness. Topping the list as favorites is Calumet Farm's Real Delight, who won the Kentucky Oaks May 2 with Jockey Eddie Arcaro up. Arcaro will be riding the filly again Saturday. And he'll be around a week later to ride Hill Gail, Kentucky Derby winner, in the $75,000-added Preakness Stakes.

Giuliani Favored

New York May 9 (AP)—Sammy Giuliani of Stamford, Conn., will celebrate his 20th birthday tonight by fighting Johnny Williams of Montgomery, Ala., in the feature bout scheduled for 10 rounds at St. Nicholas Arena. Giuliani rates a 9-5 favorite in the middleweight scrap. It will be his first 10-rounder as fighters under 20 years old are not permitted to go that distance in New York.

High School Golfers Still Undefeated

Kingston High School's undefeated golf squad hurdled its first major test with flying colors yesterday, when it humbled the crack Beacon High linksmen, 10½ to 1½ points in a thrilling duel on the Southern Dutchess links.

Beacon had blanked Middletown High and was regarded as the major threat to Maroon supremacy in the DUSO League. And yesterday the Dutchess swingers proved tough, if not invincible. There was a difference of only 14 strokes in the aggregate totals.

Strangely enough, Harvey Bostic, the Maroon's No. 1 ace, was high man for the day with an 85. The three other members of the squad — Charlie Bostic, Brian Smith and Harold Van Aken—each carded 82s. C. Bostic and Smith had low nines of 40.

Smith and Van Aken swept three points each. J. Mayer and B. Sublinski led Beacon with 85s, the former taking a half point from Harvey Bostic.

The boxscore:

Kingston High (10½)

Harvey Bostic	43	42	85	2½
Charlie Bostic	40	42	82	2
Brian Smith	40	42	82	3
Harold Van Aken	41	41	82	3
			331	10½

Beacon High (1½)

J. Mayer	44	41	85	½
D. Talbot	46	40	86	1
B. Sublinski	42	43	85	0
J. Adler	46	43	89	0

Hitzman, Yannone and Stan Bomba Set On First Arlington Speedway Program

Two of 1951's top stars—Bud Hitzman and Johnny Yannone—will be on hand for the opening program of stock car races Sunday at Arlington Speedway.

Hitzman, who hails from Verbank, has led several crack fields for some fast laps this season. Yannone, the Newburgh Flyer, with his now famous No. 80 red car, has been a leading money winner on Pennsylvania and New York tracks this season.

Stan Bomba, the points champion at Arlington last season, will launch defense of his title with a newer and faster car.

Other drivers slated to compete at the Van Wagner road oval are Duke Washburn, Pinky Disbrow, Bobby Thompson, "Wild Bill" Secor, Ted Seabiscuit, Dutch Freeman and a host of other headline drivers representing a cross section of New England's best.

Races are scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. and additional entertainment is planned.

Comets Discovered

Many new comets and a large number of new "baby comets" have been discovered already in the "sky survey" being conducted at the Palomar Observatory in California.

Steel production in the United States in 1950 was about 1,274 pounds for each person in the country.

Average Daily Handle Way Up at Jamaica

Albany, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—"They're off" at Jamaica meant only the horses—not betting or attendance.

At the Jamaica spring meeting, wagering was up 16 per cent and attendance nine per cent higher than in 1951, the State Tax Department reported yesterday.

Betting at the 24-day meeting totaled $58,986,553, compared with $76,321,859 for the 36 days of spring racing last year.

The average daily handle rose from $2,120,052 last spring to $2,457,773 this year.

Daily attendance averaged 30,494 this year as against 28,074 last spring. This year 731,862 went to the track in the 24 days, compared with 1,010,662 for the 36 days last spring.

Hudson Bowler Leads All-Events

A Hudson bowling veteran of 35-years experience and the Kingston doubles combination of John Frederick and Bill Mohr shared the spotlight in singles and doubles action of the state tournament last night.

The Hudson kegler — Ted Richardson — fired a 2066 all-events blast to wrest the lead from Jumpin' Joe Roberts of Poughkeepsie, who had been in front for several days with a 2063.

Richardson, who can account for the fact that his average has not risen above the 150-mark despite long years of travail on the polished lanes, racked up net scores of 606 in the team event, 620 in the doubles and 507 singles for a 1733 net. A 333-pin handicap boosted his gross total to 2066. He rolled in only one league.

1334 Local Doubles

Frederick and Mohr rolled the best gross doubles series by any Kingston bowlers to date and landed high in the standing board with a 1334 series.

Frederick fired a 615 net and 687 gross and Mohr posted 578 net and 647 gross.

Don McConnell's 617 net and 710 gross blast was the impetus for a 1264 series with B. Conlin who had 446 net and 554 gross.

Dominic Muscato of Canandaigua shot 696 to lead the singles department and four of his fellow townsmen were among the top five for the night. Best Kingston score reported was a 652 by Marty Kellenberger.

3104 Best Team Series

A high-powered Syracuse combine—the N. O. Zischang five—got off to a slow start on alleys 7 and 8 with 881 but rallied to stack scores of 959 and 1051 for a 2891 net and 3104 gross for the best team score.

Anchor Dom Scarsone shot 624, despite a 154 opener. He came back with 224 and 246. Three other members rolled over "600" gross.

Frank Kaminski furnished 677 gross to pace the Lublin's of Poughkeepsie to a 3094 gross. Atwood's BCA of Buffalo toppled 3034 and Ted Richardson's 717 sparked Glendale Hotel of Hudson to a 3039 gross. Howard Oilers of Walden shot 3021 behind Edward Thiele's 673 and Bill Hunter posted 670 in Sculley's Grill 3028 from Newburgh.

Two Newburgh squads featuring Cy's Diner aces failed to roll into the money.

Heavy weekend action starts tonight at both alleys and will continue until Sunday midnight.

Oliver Shoots Career Low

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 9 (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver shot the best tournament round of his 14-year professional golf career yesterday and he'd better keep on doing it to win the 72-hole Greenbrier Open.

The jolly golfer rolled out a near-record 61 in the first 18 holes on the old White Course.

But still stalking him is the great Sam Snead for whom this is home course. Snead is second by three strokes, and the way Sam's playing, Oliver can't afford to falter.

In two practice rounds before the tourney, Snead carded 63 and 64.

The 72-hole record for the 6,368 yard old White Course is 259 set by Ben Hogan in the Greenbrier two years ago. Snead set the 18-hole record of 60 the same year, although not in the tourney.

Olympic Trials

Chicago, May 9 (AP)—Trials to pick 10 bicyclists for the U. S. Olympic team will be held in two New Jersey cities, it was announced yesterday. Frank Small, Bayside, L. I., chairman of the Olympic cycling committee, said five will qualify at tryouts June 19-20 at Wall Stadium in Belmar. The other five will be picked in road race trials June 22 and 24 at Paterson over a 116-mile course.

Colleges Admit Losses to TV

New York, May 9 (AP) — Controlled television of college football will again be possible this fall under the National Collegiate Athletic Association program now being drafted.

It probably will be on a broader basis than 1951 even although the survey made by the NCAA television committee through the National Opinion Research Center showed that television does definite damage to college football attendance.

"This year's television will be spread among more colleges," said Bob Hall, Yale athletic director and chairman of the TV committee. "The colleges acted with the full knowledge they are hurting themselves."

Hall, who declared that college football supports the vast recreational and physical education programs of American schools, pointed to the elaborate TV survey based on last season which said:

"Colleges competing with televised football in 1951 reported a loss of one and a half million ticket sales compared to their 'expected' attendance based on the pre-television levels of 1947-48. In contrast, colleges with no TV competition boosted 1951 paid attendance by 318,000 over their 'expected' 1947-48 average.

"In relative terms this means a loss of over 15 per cent for the colleges competing against TV, compared to a gain of more than 6 per cent for the colleges without such competition—a 'TV differential' of 21 per cent."

500 Schoolboy Athletes Entered in First Annual Hudson Valley Relays

New Paltz High Site of Largest Meet in History

Special '100' Race Draws Crack Sprinters

More than 500 athletes representing 28 area high schools are scheduled to compete in the first annual Hudson Valley Relay Carnival Saturday at New Paltz Central High.

The events will be held, rain or shine, on the new quarter mile track, starting at 1:30 p. m.

The keenest competition is expected in Class C where there is a heavy entry. Class A competition, involving Kingston High, is restricted to Middletown, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and the locals.

Class B expects plenty of action and excitement, with Nyack, Suffern, Arlington, Wappingers Falls, Saugerties, Liberty, Spring Valley and Ellenville entered with powerful teams.

Principal race of the day is the "Invitation 100" an invitational affair restricted to the premier 100-yard men from each school.

Marcello Favored

Anthony Marcello of Middletown High, who defeated Kingston's Webster Henderson last week, is the favorite. Other standout entries in this race will be:

Ellenville High — Robert Ingham, senior. Has one sectional dual meet victories; 10.2 seconds for the century.

Coxsackie-Athens — Eugene Dickson, junior. Has best mark of 10.6; 100-yard champion of the Central Hudson Valley League.

Wappingers Falls—Charles Atkins, senior, with three-years experience. Always under 11 seconds.

Haldane High—Ronald Mazzoca. Sparked relay team to fourth in Penn Relays of 1952.

Saugerties High—Lon Sweeney, junior. He was on winning relay team against Tannersville and has been clocked in 10.1.

Newburgh Free Academy—Jack Burger, only holdover from Academy's track squad of 1951 and member of championship relay team.

Kingston High — Webster Henderson, senior. Member of last year's championship relay team. Best time of 10.5.

New Paltz High—John Grey, junior. Won 100 in 10.6 against Ellenville. Second in 1951 UCAL championships held at Marlborough.

Fire Hazard May Close Catskills

Fire danger is reported "virtually as great" in the southern Catskill mountains as in the Adirondack mountain area and unless a "soaking" rain comes shortly it may be necessary to close forests, the Conservation Department reports.

While no major fires were reported in the Adirondack area, a fire started near Wurtsboro in Sullivan county last Sunday but the Conservation Department called the fire "not critical." It was still burning on Thursday. There was another fire this week in the Skunnemunks range in Orange county near Washingtonville. In some places in the Adirondacks not more than one tenth of an inch of rain has fallen in the past 24 days. The only fire in the Adirondack region Thursday was one at Rattlesnake Cobble near Lage George which had burned over about 25 acres. Rangers were standing by.

SCORES ON INSIDE-THE-PARK HOMER

Indian Sweep of Stadium Series Sends Cleveland Stock Soaring

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

It said here a month ago Cleveland couldn't win the pennant until they learned how to win at Yankee Stadium. Well, Bud, they seem to learn fast.

Not since 1947 had the Indians swept a series in the New York Yankees' home park until they humbled the World Champs yesterday, 12-5, for a third straight.

The Yankee Stadium jinx, the Vic Raschi hex, the Eddie Lopat whammy all went out the window in this first New York-Cleveland series of the season.

Raschi got his lumps Wednesday and Lopat his yesterday when the Tribe's new cleanup man, Ray Boone, went on the warpath. Boone struck the big blow of the game, a three-run homer in the fifth. It hardly mattered that Cleveland poured over six runs in the ninth.

Bobby Feller was the official winning pitcher as the Tribe finished its first Eastern trip with a fine 7-3 record. But Feller needed solid help from Bob Lemon. The Yanks nicked Feller for 12 hits in 5 2/3 innings. Lemon gave them only one the rest of the way—a ninth-inning homer by Gene Woodling.

Bombers Sinking

This crushing defeat, sinking the Yanks three games under .500 and 5½ games off the lead, came at a particularly embarrassing moment. The latest averages show Archie Wilson, one of the men sent to Washington in the Irv Noren deal, leading the league with a .481 batting average.

Winging home after this successful tour, the Indians were only 18 points behind the leading Boston Red Sox. All even in the "games behind" they trailed in points because they have lost one more while winning one more.

The Chicago White Sox salvaged the finale at Boston 4-2, on Saul Rogovin's five-hit pitching. Ed Stewart's two-run homer off loser Ray Scarborough in the seventh was the crusher, ending the White Sox's six-game losing streak.

Rivera Delivers

Big Jim Rivera, the St. Louis Brown's slumping rookie flash, snapped out of it with a ninth-inning home run that beat Philadelphia, 9-8. Rivera, benched for weak hitting, got into the game just in time to make a sensational catch in the sixth.

Washington struggled 11 innings to a 4-4 deadlock with Detroit in a "suspended game" that will be completed before a May 31 night game. Play was halted after the 11th to let the Tigers catch a train for home and a date with Chicago this afternoon.

Dave Koslo continued his mastery over the St. Louis Cardinals as the New York Giants tightened the National League race with a 3-0 win. The defending champs now are only 28 percentage points behind the idle Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stan Musial, who went hitless against Koslo last year in 17 trips, had a pair of doubles. It wasn't enough to save Gerry Staley from his first defeat after winning five in a row. Three hits by Whitey Lockman led the Giant attack.

Willard Marshall tripled with the bases loaded and singled home a fourth run in the Boston Braves' 6-4 triumph over Chicago. The loss dropped the Cubs into a third-place tie with idle Cincinnati.

The Philadelphia at Pittsburgh game was postponed because of rain and wet grounds. Brooklyn and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Ray Boone, Indians: Led Cleveland to third straight over Yankees by driving in five runs with homer and triple in 12-5 romp.

Pitching—Dave Koslo, Giants: Shut out St. Louis with four hits, 3-0, for ninth straight over Cards in three-year span.

Jaspers Defend

New York, May 9 (AP) — The annual Metropolitan intercollegiate track and field championships get under way today with two field events. Manhattan College, the defending champion, is favored to take the title with little trouble. The remaining 14 events will be held at Randalls Island tomorrow.

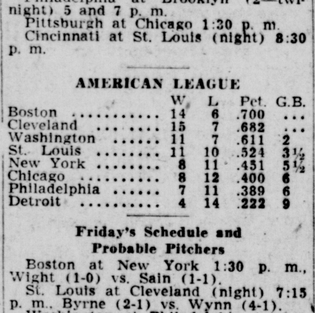
NYMPHS ARE JUST RIGHT FOR SPRING FLY FISHING!



TROUT, SMALLMOUTH BASS AND PANFISH FEED HEAVILY UPON NYMPHS IN STREAMS. SOMETIMES THESE FISH WILL FEED UPON NOTHING ELSE. GET 2 OR 3 PATTERNS IN SIZES 10, 12 AND 14 TO BE PREPARED FOR THEM.

NYMPHS MAY BE FISHED VERY MUCH THE SAME AS WET FLIES. USE A LONG, FINE TAPERED 4X SINKING LEADER. CAST ACROSS TO X OR UPSTREAM AND LET IT DRIFT DOWN. KEEP ROD TIP POINTED AT THE NYMPH, READY TO STRIKE INSTANTLY. WHEN DRIFT ENDS, RETRIEVE BY HAND PULLS (SHORT JERKS) OR RAISING ROD TIP. A SOLID STRIKING FISH MAY HOOK ITSELF!

Weak on Pitched Balls With Men on Base, Feller's Appraisal of Yankee Woes

New York, May 9 (AP)—Bob Feller, who has pitched against the New York Yankees more times than any active hurler, appeared to be the logical person to ask the question in most everybody's mind today.

"What's wrong with the Yankees?"

The former premier pitcher in baseball, still a very effective hurler with the Cleveland Indians, didn't hesitate a moment as he replied.

"That's evident, isn't it? They don't have that left handed power any more. Sure, they miss Joe DiMaggio but they also miss those lefthanded long ball hitters who used to murder you in Yankee Stadium. Yogi Berra, who can reach the seats, probably will help, but he is not enough."

Feller, who's been facing the Yankees on and off since 1936, excluding three and three-quarter seasons he spent in the Navy reflected for a moment and added ruefully:

"Boy, how I would like to have pitched against this Yankee team ten years ago. It's a cinch I wouldn't be behind them now.

"The trouble is, I don't know who has slipped more, the Yankees or Feller."

Minus To Yankees

By being behind, Bob meant that the Yankees had beaten him more times than he has beaten them. As he said this, the Yanks, only club to have an edge over him, held 33 victories over him against 28 losses. A few minutes later, Feller was to register his 29th triumph over the Yanks by a 12-5 score although he needed relief from Bob Lemon.

"Understand," Feller explaining. "I'm not being critical of the Yankees. They're a good club. They have good pitching, a fine defense and lots of speed. It's just that the team doesn't have those long ball hitters any more. The kind that made the Yankees famous as the Bronx Bombers."

Casey Stengel, wise old Yankee manager, explained the club's difficulties in his own inimitable way.

Dodgers Warned On Jockeying

New York, May 9 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers have been warned by President Warren Giles of the National League to stop their jockeying from the bench, it was learned today.

The warning came in the form of a letter to Manager Charlie Dressen. The letter was read to the Brooklyn players in Cincinnati last Wednesday following the banishment of pitcher Chris Van Cuyk from the bench by Umpire Frank Dascoli on Tuesday night.

The source said Giles wrote Dressen he heard vile language from the Brooklyn bench himself and that Jackie Robinson was the worst offender.

After the letter had been read to the Brooklyn players, Robinson is said to have told Giles he never used profane language. Dressen also denied that his star second baseman had used any vile language.

The letter told Dressen he would be held responsible for the action of his players and that Dascoli was too lenient on Tuesday when he took action only against Van Cuyk.

Dressen had no comment other than to defend Robinson.

Sea Level Raised

MISS ATOMIC BLAST—Radiating loveliness instead of deadly atomic particles, Candyce King, actress appearing at Last Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., dazzled U. S. Marines who participated in recent atomic maneuvers at Yucca Flats. They bestowed on her the title of "Miss Atomic Blast," finding her as awe-inspiring, in another way, as was the "Big Bomb."

500 Schoolboy Athletes Entered in First Annual Hudson Valley Relays

Special '100' Race Draws Crack Sprinters

More than 500 athletes representing 28 area high schools are scheduled to compete in the first annual Hudson Valley Relay Carnval Saturday at New Paltz Central High.

The events will be held, rain or shine, on the new quarter mile track, starting at 1:30 p. m.

The keenest competition is expected in Class C where there is a heavy entry. Class A competition, involving Kingston High, is restricted to Middletown, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and the locals.

Class B expects plenty of action and excitement, with Nyack, Suffern, Arlington, Wappingers Falls, Saugerties, Liberty, Spring Valley and Ellenville entered with powerful teams.

The Relay Carnival replaces the former Newburgh Relays and is the largest scholastic track meet ever staged in these parts.

Principal race of the day is the "Invitation 100" an invitational affair restricted to the premier 100-yard men from each school.

Marcello Favored

Anthony Marcello of Middletown High, who defeated Kingston's Webster Henderson last week, is the favorite. Other standout entries in this race will be:

Ellenville High — Robert Ingham, senior. Has one sectional dual meet victories; 10.2 seconds for the century.

Coxsackie-Athens — Eugene Dickson, junior. Has best mark of 10.6; 100-yard champion of the Central Hudson Valley League.

Highland Falls — Joe Dillon, sophomore. Consistent winner in the 100.

Wappingers Falls—Charles Atkins, senior, with three-years experience. Always under 11 seconds.

Haldane High—Ronald Mazzoca. Sparked relay team to fourth in Penn Relays of 1952.

Saugerties High—Lon Sweeney, junior. He was on winning relay team against Tannersville and has been clocked in 10.1.

Newburgh Free Academy—Jack Burger, only holdover from Academy's track squad of 1951 and member of championship relay team.

Kingston High — Webster Henderson, senior. Member of last year's championship relay team. Best time of 10.5.

Fire Hazard May Close Catskills

Fire danger is reported "virtually as great" in the southern Catskill mountains as in the Adirondack mountain area and unless a "soaking" rain comes shortly it may be necessary to close forests, the Conservation Department reports.

While no major fires were reported in the Adirondack area, a fire started near Wurtsboro in Sullivan county last Sunday but the Conservation Department called the fire "not critical." It was still burning on Thursday. There was another fire this week in the Skunnemunks range in Orange county near Washingtonville. In some places in the Adirondacks not more than one tenth of an inch of rain has fallen in the past 24 days. The only fire in the Adirondack region Thursday was one at Rattlesnake Cobble near Lage George which had burned over about 25 acres. Rangers were standing by.

SCORES ON INSIDE-THE-PARK HOMER

Indian Sweep of Stadium Series Sends Cleveland Stock Soaring

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

It said here a month ago Cleveland couldn't win the pennant until they learned how to win at Yankee Stadium. Well, Bud, they seem to learn fast.

Not since 1947 had the Indians swept a series in the New York Yankees' home park until they humbled the World Champs yesterday, 12-5, for a third straight.

The Yankee Stadium jinx, the Vic Raschi hex, the Eddie Lopat whammy all went out the window in this first New York-Cleveland series of the season.

Raschi got his lumps Wednesday and Lopat his yesterday when the Tribe's new cleanup man, Ray Boone, went on the warpath. Boone struck the big blow of the game, a three-run homer in the fifth. It hardly mattered that Cleveland poured over six runs in the ninth.

Bobby Feller was the official winning pitcher as the Tribe finished its first Eastern trip with a fine 7-3 record. But Feller needed solid help from Bob Lemon. The Yanks nicked Feller for 12 hits in 5 2/3 innings. Lemon gave them only one the rest of the way—a ninth-inning homer by Gene Woodling.

Bombers Sinking

This crushing defeat, sinking the Yanks three games under .500 and 5½ games off the lead, came at a particularly embarrassing moment. The latest averages show Archie Wilson, one of the men sent to Washington in the Irv Noren deal, leading the league with a .481 batting average.

Winging home after this successful tour, the Indians were only 18 points behind the leading Boston Red Sox. All even in the "games behind" they trailed in points because they have lost one more while winning one more.

The Chicago White Sox salvaged the finale at Boston 4-2, on Saul Rogovin's five-hit pitching. Ed Stewart's two-run homer off loser Ray Scarborough in the seventh was the crusher, ending the White Sox's six-game losing streak.

Rivera Delivers

Big Jim Rivera, the St. Louis Brown's slumping rookie flash, snapped out of it with a ninth-inning home run that beat Philadelphia, 9-8. Rivera, benched for weak hitting, got into the game just in time to make a sensational catch in the sixth.

Washington struggled 11 innings to a 4-4 deadlock with Detroit in a "suspended game" that will be completed before a May 31 night game. Play was halted after the 11th to let the Tigers catch a train for home and a date with Chicago this afternoon.

Dave Koslo continued his mastery over the St. Louis Cardinals as the New York Giants tightened the National League race with a 3-0 win. The defending champs now are only 28 percentage points behind the idle Brooklyn Dodgers.

The surging Giants rushed through their first western trip with a glittering 9-1 record. They have won 13 of their last 15 games.

Stan Musial, who went hitless against Koslo last year in 17 trips, had a pair of doubles. It wasn't enough to save Gerry Staley from his first defeat after winning five in a row. Three hits by Whitey Lockman led the Giant attack.

Willard Marshall tripled with the bases loaded and singled home a fourth run in the Boston Braves' 6-4 triumph over Chicago. The loss dropped the Cubs into a third-place tie with idle Cincinnati.

The Philadelphia at Pittsburgh game was postponed because of rain and wet grounds. Brooklyn and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Ray Boone, Indians: Led Cleveland to third straight over Yankees by driving in five runs with homer and triple in 12-5 romp.

Pitching—Dave Koslo, Giants: Shut out St. Louis with four hits, 3-0, for ninth straight over Cards in three-year span.

Jaspers Defend

New York, May 9 (AP) — The annual Metropolitan intercollegiate track and field championships get under way today with two field events. Manhattan College, the defending champion, is favored to take the title with little trouble. The remaining 14 events will be held at Randalls Island tomorrow.

NYMPHS ARE JUST RIGHT FOR SPRING FLY FISHING!

TROUT, SMALLMOUTH BASS AND PANFISH FEED HEAVILY UPON NYMPHS IN STREAMS. SOMETIMES THESE FISH WILL FEED UPON NOTHING ELSE. GET 2 OR 3 PATTERNS IN SIZES 10, 12 AND 14 TO BE PREPARED FOR THEM.

NYMPHS MAY BE FISHED VERY MUCH THE SAME AS WET FLIES. USE A LONG, FINE TAPERED 4X SINKING LEADER. CAST ACROSS TO X OR UPSTREAM AND LET IT DRIFT DOWN. KEEP ROD TIP POINTED AT THE NYMPH, READY TO STRIKE INSTANTLY. WHEN DRIFT ENDS, RETRIEVE BY HAND PULLS (SHORT JERKS) OR RAISING ROD TIP. A SOLID STRIKING FISH MAY HOOK ITSELF!

Weak on Pitched Balls With Men on Base, Feller's Appraisal of Yankee Woes

New York, May 9 (AP)—Bob Feller, who has pitched against the New York Yankees more times than any active hurler, appeared to be the logical person to ask the question in most everybody's mind today.

"What's wrong with the Yankees?"

The former premier pitcher in baseball, still a very effective hurler with the Cleveland Indians, didn't hesitate a moment as he replied.

"That's evident, isn't it? They don't have that left handed power any more. Sure, they miss Joe DiMaggio but they also miss those lefthanded long ball hitters who used to murder you in Yankee Stadium, Yogi Berra, who can reach the seats, probably will help, but he is not enough."

Feller, who's been facing the Yankees on and off since 1936, excluding three and three-quarter seasons he spent in the Navy reflected for a moment and added ruefully:

"Boy, how I would like to have pitched against this Yankee team ten years ago. It's a cinch I wouldn't be behind them now.

"The trouble is, I don't know who has slipped more, the Yankees or Feller."

Minus To Yankees

By being behind, Bob meant that the Yankees had beaten him more times than he has beaten them. As he said this, the Yanks, only club to have an edge over him, held 33 victories over him against 28 losses. A few minutes later, Feller was to register his 29th triumph over the Yanks by a 12-5 score although he needed relief from Bob Lemon.

"Understand," Feller explaining. "I'm not being critical of the Yankees. They're a good club. They have good pitching, a fine defense and lots of speed. It's just that the team doesn't have those long ball hitters any more. The kind that made the Yankees famous as the Bronx Bombers."

Casey Stengel, wise old Yankee manager, explained the club's difficulties in his own inimitable way.

O'Connor, Evans Head Mat Show

Two of wrestling's biggest names—Irish Pat O'Connor of New Zealand and Don Evans, of nearby Flatbush, are costarred on tonight's card at the municipal auditorium.

O'Connor, new TV sensation, meets Tiger Joe Tasker of Seattle, Wash., and Evans is paired with Wally Dern, New Orleans, in best-of-three falls matches. Joe Muscato, Buffalo, and John Heidman, St. Louis, meet in the one-fall curtain raiser, time limit, 30 minutes.

First bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

Dodgers Warned On Jockeying

New York, May 9 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers have been warned by President Warren Giles of the National League to stop their jockeying from the bench, it was learned today.

The warning came in the form of a letter to Manager Charlie Dressen. The letter was read to the Brooklyn players in Cincinnati last Wednesday following the banishment of pitcher Chris Van Cuyk from the bench by Umpire Frank Dascoli on Tuesday night.

The source said Giles wrote Dressen he heard vile language from the Brooklyn bench himself and that Jackie Robinson was the worst offender.

After the letter had been read to the Brooklyn players, Robinson is said to have told Giles he never used profane language. Dressen also denied that his star second baseman had used any vile language.

The letter told Dressen he would be held responsible for the action of his players and that Dascoli was too lenient on Tuesday when he took action only against Van Cuyk.

Dressen had no comment other than to defend Robinson.

Sea Level Raised

In the last 100 years water released from melting glaciers and ice sheets has raised sea level about 2½ inches all over the world.

Atomic Gun . . .

Fires With Accuracy

And it can fire with accuracy "comparable to conventional artillery, and tests indicate it is much more accurate at long ranges."

Pace also said that in addition to "tactical" atomic bombs being developed for use by aircraft, this country also is developing atomic artillery which can outrange the gun-type weapon.

This development, he explained, involves "guided missiles and rockets to receive atomic warheads."

Pace likewise disclosed that courses in atomic warfare are being introduced in army schools.

Attending School

Currently, he said, army officers and some army civilian specialists are attending a school at Sandia Base, New Mexico, in a study of the use and characteristics of atomic armaments.

He then added:

"We intend beginning individual and unit training in atomic warfare in the near future."

Despite the building of new weapons of destruction, the army secretary foresaw a continuing need for "many of our current conventional weapons."

"So-called 'fantastic weapons' there may be," he said, "but to rely on them alone for our protection is not only fantastic, but fool-hardy to an extreme."

Meanwhile, Pace said, the army is seeking to "stock our arsenal with weapons rather than blueprints."

Then he said:

"As atomic weapons pass from blue-print to hardware, we are adding them to this arsenal. At the same time we are aggressively seeking to eliminate those weapons which may be safely regarded as replaced by this new hardware. Decisions on what weapons to replace are difficult at best, but we realize that such eliminations must be effected if we are to preserve the economic as well as military security of this nation."

Gross Says . . .

at that time he had 26 or 27 such places.

"We got it down to $15,000," Gross said.

Gross said that when he was paying "ice"—protection money—"I had different cashiers hold 10,-000, 20,000, 30,000 dollars and I'd take the amount needed to pay the ice."

Gross said he'd pay the police officers who came around regularly twice a month to his headquarters in a Brooklyn bar by taking them into the washroom or to the kitchen or to wherever there were not many people around.

Lost Money in 1949

Gross denied that he had lost 60 to 65,000 dollars in 1949 when he has admitted he was in some financial difficulty.

Gross ran in a few more out-of-town spots that he used to use for taking bets when his operations in Manhattan and Brooklyn had to be curtailed.

In addition to such New Jersey spots as Cliffside, Union City and Clifton which he previously mentioned, he said he had operated in Passaic, Paterson, West New York, all in New Jersey, and in Mount Vernon, N. Y. He gave no specific addresses but said he had started his New Jersey operation in West New York.

Oil Strike Hope

about 35 per cent of the nation's crude oil refining capacity.

The unions have asked a 25-cent hourly wage hike, but Knight said any company offer of 18½ cents probably would be accepted. They also seek boosts in night shift differentials. Current differentials are 4 cents from 4 p. m. to midnight and 6 cents from midnight to 8 a. m. Union requests call for 6 and 12 cents respectively.

Baby Is Born Home, No Doctor on Hand

A baby was born at a downtown address Wednesday night without a physician in attendance, according to the city police, who advised that five doctors had been called.

The father called police asking assistance in obtaining medical aid. He was furnished a list of three doctors to call.

His report to the desk sergeant, with another appeal for help, was that none of the doctors was available.

The sergeant called two other physicians, he said, but without results.

One said he was not an obstetrician.

Another said he hadn't delivered a baby in 10 years.

In the meantime, the police report reveals, the baby was born on a couch.

The mother and child were removed by ambulance to a hospital for treatment, the police said.

The sergeant in charge of headquarters said he told the father on the first call that he'd better call for an ambulance right away.

There was no regular family doctor in the case, according to the report.

Republicans Gain Voters

San Francisco, May 9 (AP)—Republicans gained nearly ¼ million qualified voters while the Democrats lost 66,000, registration figures for California's June 3 primary election showed today. Still leading in total registration by 803,652, the Democrats registered 2,995,860, compared to their record total of 3,062,205 for the 1950 general election. Republican registration rose from 1,944,812 to 2,192,208.

amount of boost in percentage margins for grocers now is being studied at the highest Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) levels.

Says They're Necessary

One official said the increases are necessary to keep grocers' earnings at a fair level. He said studies have shown that earnings before taxes, especially of chain food stores, are below levels that would entitle them to a price increase.

The margin increases under consideration would give the $12 billion a year grocery industry about a 1 per cent hike in dollar volume of sales.

Primarily the increase would benefit chain groups, but they also would apply to the smaller independent stores and to wholesalers. An official said no exact data is available on earnings of wholesalers but "there is some deficiency in this group of food dealers."

Atomic Gun . . .

designed for amphibious operations.

Fires With Accuracy

And it can fire with accuracy "comparable to conventional artillery, and tests indicate it is much more accurate at long ranges."

Pace also said that in addition to "tactical" atomic bombs being developed for use by aircraft, this country also is developing atomic artillery which can outrange the gun-type weapon.

This development, he explained, involves "guided missiles and rockets to receive atomic warheads."

Pace likewise disclosed that courses in atomic warfare are being introduced in army schools.

Attending School

Currently, he said, army officers and some army civilian specialists are attending a school at Sandia Base, New Mexico, in a study of the use and characteristics of atomic armaments.

He then added:

"We intend beginning individual and unit training in atomic warfare in the near future."

Despite the building of new weapons of destruction, the army secretary foresaw a continuing need for "many of our current conventional weapons."

"So-called 'fantastic weapons' there may be," he said, "but to rely on them alone for our protection is not only fantastic, but fool-hardy to an extreme."

Meanwhile, Pace said, the army is seeking to "stock our arsenal with weapons rather than blueprints."

Then he said:

"As atomic weapons pass from blue-print to hardware, we are adding them to this arsenal. At the same time we are aggressively seeking to eliminate those weapons which may be safely regarded as replaced by this new hardware. Decisions on what weapons to replace are difficult at best, but we realize that such eliminations must be effected if we are to preserve the economic as well as military security of this nation."

at that time he had 26 or 27 such places.

"We got it down to $15,000," Gross said.

Gross said that when he was paying "ice"—protection money—"I had different cashiers hold 10,000, 20,000, 30,000 dollars and I'd take the amount needed to pay the ice."

Gross said he'd pay the police officers who came around regularly twice a month to his headquarters in a Brooklyn bar by taking them into the washroom or to the kitchen or to wherever there were not many people around.

Lost Money in 1949

Gross denied that he had lost 60 to 65,000 dollars in 1949 when he has admitted he was in some financial difficulty.

Gross ran in a few more out-of-town spots that he used to use for taking bets when his operations in Manhattan and Brooklyn had to be curtailed.

In addition to such New Jersey spots as Cliffside, Union City and Clifton which he previously mentioned, he said he had operated in Passaic, Paterson, West New York, all in New Jersey, and in Mount Vernon, N. Y. He gave no specific addresses but said he had started his New Jersey operation in West New York.

about 35 per cent of the nation's crude oil refining capacity.

The unions have asked a 25-cent hourly wage hike, but Knight said any company offer of 18½ cents probably would be accepted. They also seek boosts in night shift differentials. Current differentials are 4 cents from 4 p. m. to midnight and 6 cents from midnight to 8 a. m. Union requests call for 6 and 12 cents respectively.

Baby Is Born Home, No Doctor on Hand

A baby was born at a downtown address Wednesday night without a physician in attendance, according to the city police, who advised that five doctors had been called.

The father called police asking assistance in obtaining medical aid. He was furnished a list of three doctors to call.

His report to the desk sergeant, with another appeal for help, was that none of the doctors was available.

The sergeant called two other physicians, he said, but without results.

One said he was not an obstetrician.

Another said he hadn't delivered a baby in 10 years.

In the meantime, the police report reveals, the baby was born on a couch.

The mother and child were removed by ambulance to a hospital for treatment, the police said.

The sergeant in charge of headquarters said he told the father on the first call that he'd better call for an ambulance right away.

There was no regular family doctor in the case, according to the report.

Republicans Gain Voters

San Francisco, May 9 (AP)—Republicans gained nearly ¼ million qualified voters while the Democrats lost 66,000, registration figures for California's June 3 primary election showed today. Still leading in total registration by 803,652, the Democrats registered 2,995,860, compared to their record total of 3,062,205 for the 1950 general election. Republican registration rose from 1,944,812 to 2,192,208.

amount of boost in percentage margins for grocers now is being studied at the highest Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) levels.

Says They're Necessary

One official said the increases are necessary to keep grocers' earnings at a fair level. He said studies have shown that earnings before taxes, especially of chain food stores, are below levels that would entitle them to a price increase.

The margin increases under consideration would give the $12 billion a year grocery industry about a 1 per cent hike in dollar volume of sales.

Primarily the increase would benefit chain groups, but they also would apply to the smaller independent stores and to wholesalers. An official said no exact data is available on earnings of wholesalers but "there is some deficiency in this group of food dealers."

The Weather

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1952

Sun rises at 4:29 a. m.; sun sets at 6:53 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather, partly cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 44 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 71 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity: Sunny and pleasant today, high in upper 60's. Fair tonight, low 45 to 50. Becoming cloudy Saturday and a little cooler, high in 50's.

Eastern New York: Fair with highest 60 to 68 today. Fair tonight, lowest in middle 30's north and around 40 south portion. Saturday mostly cloudy, chance of some rain south portion.

The city engineer's weather records today showed a temperature of 66 degrees, a barometric pressure of 29.5 inches and a humidity of 68 per cent. The velocity of a southeast wind was about five miles an hour. The high temperature yesterday was 77 degrees at 3 p. m., and the low 41 at 3 a. m. The mean temperature was 59 degrees and the normal 59.6 degrees. The humidity was 93 per cent at 5 a. m., and 44 at 4 p. m. The wind was variable with a velocity of about eight miles an hour. The high barometric pressure was 29.6 at 1 a. m. and 29.4 inches at 6 p. m.

Treaty Is Initiated

Paris, May 9 (AP)—Six West European nations tonight initiated the draft of a treaty to create a one-uniform European Army.

Van Fleet Threatens Force . . .

eral Dodd had nothing to cling to."

The army said Dodd has been treated well by the Reds. He communicated with guard posts outside the barbed wire stockade by army field telephone and couriered messages. He received American food while the North Korean POWs ate their usual bowls of rice—both passed through from outside.

Dodd relayed a Communist demand for 1,000 sheets of writing paper and a "hospital representative." The paper was stacked outside the gate. But Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, newly named prison camp commander succeeding Dodd, allowed neither paper nor medic to pass through the gates.

Instead, Colson demanded the Reds release Dodd forthwith. The North Koreans ignored the demand.

Ridgway called the seizure of Dodd a "flagrant and fundamental defiance of United Nations authority." He said:

"I have authorized and directed General Van Fleet to take whatever action is necessary and to ue whatever force is necessary to recover General Dodd."

said he hoped to get the backing of a United States representative, but failing that would go ahead anyway. He said he had the right under UN regulations.

Mrs. Rogers said she is supporting Kutner's petition because of her interest in the Oatis case. She said it in no way interferes with steps being taken by the U. S. government to win freedom for Oatis.

She told the House that if the World Court issues the requested order, and the Czech governmen refuses to free Oatis, "then it (Czechoslovakia) automatically proves itself beyond the pale of civilized nations."

Dewey Declares

find a crook, they usually promote him."

Sen. Irving M. Ives, who is expected to be renominated, said in a speech that President Truman—in asserting that "the President has the power to do what is right for the people"—took a position like that of dictators such as Nero, Hitler and Mussolini.

Other speakers at the dinner included GOP State Chairman L. Pfeiffer, who presided: and Miss Jane Todd, vice-chairman of the Republican State Committee.

At the afternoon meeting of the convention delegation, Dewey was nominated for chairman by Livingston Platt of Westchester county.

Mrs. Jessica McCullough Weis, of Rochester, was elected vice-chairman of the delegation and Joseph Rubinstein, of Dunkirk, secretary.

J. Russel Sprague, Nassau county GOP leader, and Mrs. Weis were renominated for New York state members of the GOP national committee, subject to ratification by the convention.

For New York state members of national convention committees the delegates named Ives and Miss Todd for the committee on resolutions, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck for the credentials committee, Stanley Bauer of Erie for the committee on rules, and Mrs. Norma Stone of Syracuse for the committee on permanent organization.

76 Attend From County

A total of 76 Ulster county Republicans attended Thursday's meeting in New York, led by State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, county chairman, and Attorney N. LeVan Haver, city chairman. Most of the group remained in New York overnight and planned to return to Ulster county today.

WorldCourtAction

lease Oatis through World Court action.

Oatis is the Associated Press correspondent jailed over a year ago. He is serving a five to 10 year sentence following conviction on espionage charges which the U. S. government has denounced as phony and trumped-up.

Can Be Freed

Kutner said Oatis can be freed by having the International Court of Justice issue a habeas corpus ordering the Czechs to bring the American newsman before a court to determine whether he is lawfully held.

If the court rules Oatis is not lawfully held, Czechoslovakia, as a member of the UN, would be obliged to observe the ruling. He said the UN charter also provides that the UN can take action, without fear of veto, against any member refusing to accept the court's verdict.

Kutner said sanctions could include economic reprisals, cutting off diplomatic relations, or even military action.

Kutner said his first move would be a petition presented today to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, member of the UN Human Rights Commission. If her group acts favorably, the attorney hopes to move up through the Economic and Social Council, the General Assembly, and, finally, the International Court of Justice.

However, it was said in New York yesterday he might be blocked at the state. It was explained the UN does not take up petitions presented by individuals. A member government must sponsor them, one source said. Kutner

WHY shouldn't YOU have the Best Cartridge in your filter?
No matter what filter is on your engine, there is a W.G.B. Cartridge made ESPECIALLY for it.
Ask for W.G.B. Cartridges, made for any of the popular makes of filters.
CLEAN the oil and KEEP it clean with W.G.B. CARTRIDGES.
W.G.B. Cartridges DO NOT remove the detergent from the oil; but they DO remove all harmful contamination and prevent the formation of acid.
ASK FOR THE W.G.B. CARTRIDGE AND INSIST THAT YOU GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR.
